Dem Candidates Give Views on Inflation

Fish Meets Constituents

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

If there was any doubt in Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.'s mind as to how his Ulster County constituents feel about him since he voted in favor of two articles of impeachment against former President Richard M. Nixon, those doubts were dispelled Wednesday by a steady stream of callers at his Kingston office stopping by to give him a vote of confidence.

"I just came to shake his hand for the good job he did on the impeachment proceedings," one man said, alluding to Fish's role as a member of the House Judiciary Committee.

Many of the visitors that crowded the waiting room had other missions too. One town supervisor sought federal help for sewage and water problems in his locality, another man wanted a recommendation from Fish for his son who wishes to enter a school of dentistry. Still another had a problem with the disposition of an estate and needed Fish's intervention or referral.

Then again, there were those who wanted nothing but came only to say hello and wish the congressman well. Two young women from England who are in Kingston with their IBM-employed husbands on a temporary basis, just wanted to say thank you for the VIP tour of the White House Fish arranged for them. Fish jokingly told the obviously pregnant one of the two that she better get back to England soon or she will be giving birth to an American citizen.

On the serious side, Fish expressed great concern for one problem Amy Salkind of Gateway Industries outlined to him. It seems that Gateway is faced with a mass layoff of employes if it doesn't secure a contract soon. Ms. Salkind wanted to know if there is any possibility of a federal contract. She also sought information as to how some of the handicapped people employed at Gateway could avail themselves of food supplies.

The congressman assured her he would look into the possibility of a sub-contract for government work and referred her to the Department of Social Services regarding the food problem, suggesting that the federal food stamp program might be the answer.

Fish said he was very happy to resume his district office hours which he was forced to cancel during the past two months due to the pressure of the impeachment proceedings.

He said he was extremely pleased too to find that previously "aloof" constituents of a month or two ago are responding now in a friendly manner to him and to his position on Watergate and the impeachment.

"People are coming around," he said in a gratifying manner.

He said that he looks at the Republican attitude toward recent events as being professional and sees it as a good omen.

Fish said that as a Republican from a family of Republicans, it is impossible for him to describe what he experienced in reaching his conclusion to cast his vote for the Articles of Impeachment.

Fish said that seven months ago when the inquiry started, and as one who opposed the President's foreign and domestic policies, he attempted in every way to steel himself in nonpartisan neutrality and he determined to be rigorous in his study of the evidence. During the inquiry he repeatedly stated that he would be guided strictly by the constitution and the facts.

"This to the best of my ability I have done," he said.

"To be faithful to my oath of office— to support and defend the Constitution and to the responsibility vested in me by the Constitution, I could vote no other way," concluded.

Ford to Wage Earners: 'Tighten Your Belts, Watch Every Penny'

PRESIDENT FORD ENTERS EAST ROOM OF THE WHITE HOUSE (UPI TELEPHOTO)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has signaled his readiness to accept congressional cuts in the defense budget while his administration seeks to prune spending by other agencies in the effort to curb inflation.

Ford gave wage earners and bureaucrats the same advice for dealing with the double-digit inflation: tighten your belts, "watch every penny."

Administration aides said that as part of that belt-tightening process, the President would not resist defense spending cuts, which originally had drawn White House criticism.

At his first presidential news conference, Ford re-emphasized the drive to economize as his major inflation-fighting weapon, and underscored his opposition to wage and price controls.

" . . . Wage and price controls are out, period," the President said.

The nationally broadcast and televised news conference Wednesday was dominated by questions about inflation and about the possible prosecution of Richard M. Nixon in the Watergate case.

The President said that to deal with inflation, the administration already has announced plans for a $5.5-billion budget cut during the year that ends next June 30.

Ford said that will ease the strain on the money markets, and in addition "I think it will convince people who might have some doubts that we mean business."

In addition, the administration is collecting ideas from labor, management, agriculture and other areas to prepare for his economic summit conference Sept. 27 and 28, he said.

The approach he spurned was wage and price controls. Ford said he had discussed it with congressional leaders of both parties, that labor and management oppose it, and that it won't happen.

Some Democrats have complained that Ford's budget cutting plans would bear down on domestic social programs. But Ford said he wouldn't spare the Pentagon.

"No budget for any department is sacrosanct, and that includes the defense budget," he said. Ford said he will insist that the nation remain strong militarily.

"But if there is any fat in the defense budget, it ought to be cut out by Congress or eliminated by the secretary of defense," he said. "In the meantime, all other departments must be scrutinized carefully so that they don't have any fat and marginal programs are eliminated."

The administration is probing virtually every part of the budget for fat, economic coordinator Kenneth Rush said in an interview.

And Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, has been trying to hammer out a bipartisan approach to budget cutting.

This would involve agreements in advance between congressional leaders and the White House on where cuts can be made in programs.

On other issues, Ford said:

— Administration economic advisors have suggested that if the economy worsens the government ought to provide more public service jobs. "We will approach this problem with compassion and action where there is a need for it," Ford said.

—His nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president and his statement on amnesty for Vietnam war resisters are not "views that fall in the political spectrum right or left." Ford said, "I don't think I have deviated from my basic philosophy nor have I deviated from what I think is the right action."

—"I will probably be a candidate in 1976." The President called himself and Rockefeller a good team, "but of course the final judgment in this matter will be that of the delegates to the national convention."

Next Nixon Move Up to Jaworski

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski has drawn even tighter the curtain of silence surrounding his deliberations on the case of Richard M. Nixon. While leaving the next move to Jaworski, President Ford has said he will render the final judgment in any prosecution of his predecessor.

In the aftermath of Ford's statements at a news conference Wednesday, Jaworski and his staff not only declined comment but even refused to entertain questions.

Ford told his news conference he subscribes to the view of those who hold that Nixon should be spared from prosecution in the Watergate case that forced him from office.

Despite that, the President said Jaworski "has an obligation to take whatever action he sees fit . . . and that should include any and all individuals."

But Ford made it clear that he, as President, would make the final judgment in the case.

"I am the final authority," he said.

Asked if he would consider a pardon for Nixon if legal action were taken against the former president, Ford replied:

"Of course, I make the final decision. Until it gets to me, I make no commitment one way or the other. But I do have the right as President of the United States to make that decision."

The matter of Nixon's status as a potential defendant in the Watergate case was the opening question in Ford's first news conference as President.

Ford clearly expected it. He had in hand for quotation his statement when he took office Aug. 9 that he hoped "our former president, who brought peace to millions, will find it for himself."

Rather than saying directly that he thought Nixon should be spared from prosecution, Ford chose to state his agreement with others who already had expressed that view, which he described as "the general view and the point of view of the American people."

Meanwhile, friends of former President Nixon report he is preoccupied with legal problems but is holding up well physically and mentally in his virtual seclusion at San Clemente, the Los Angeles Times says.

The assessment of Nixon's private life in the Times account is based on statements from several persons who have been in contact with Nixon since his resignation. Most of the sources were not identified.

"Every one I've talked to says that Mr. Nixon is on top of things and that he is assessing his problems realistically," said Herbert G. Klein, former Nixon communications director who is now a Metromedia, Inc. executive.

"He has a lot of personal decisions to make — about what real estate properties to keep and other such matters," another friend was quoted as saying.

The Times account cited two basic problems for the former chief executive — his financial situation and the legal problems confronting him as an outgrowth of the Watergate case.

One source said the former president spends about $10,000 a month for mortgage payments, staff salaries and legal expenses, not counting personal living expenses.

Others who have talked to former Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, who is staying in a rented house near the Nixon estate, quote him as saying Nixon "is coming along fine."

Two More State JDA Loans

ALBANY

Ulster County will receive better than two-thirds of the $800,000 in grant loans being made available to industrial growth projects throughout the state, according to Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) who announced today that Rotron Inc. of Woodstock will receive $210,000 and Jay Steel Inc., Kingston, will receive $66,000. The remaining $51,000 went to Wonderly Company of Kingston recently.

Bell said that the New York Job Development Authority will grant loans of $276,000 to assist the industrial growth projects in both Woodstock and Kingston. He said the JDA loans are two of six totaling $808,500 which will help finance industrial projects costing $2.7 million throughout the state.

The $210,000 loan through the Kingston Area Development Corporation, Harry C. Kapreilian, president, will help Rotron Inc., Woodstock, construct a 24,000-square foot plant on a 120-acre tract the company owns in Woodstock.

Rotron, which manufactures air moving devices and systems for electronic and computer industries currently employs 1,000. Plans to add an additional 100 employes to the project are a result of the project expansion.

The total project cost is $700,000 with other finances from Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The JDA loan of $66,000 also brought about by the work of the Kingston Area Development Corporation, will help Jay Steel Products Inc., purchase a site and construct a 12,000-square foot plant on 11 acres on a Sawkill Road site where it will transfer operations from its present location on Morton Avenue, Kingston.

Bell said Jay Steel hopes to create about seven new jobs with the expansion program. The total cost of the project is $220,000 with additional financing from Kingston Trust Company.

Recently JDA also gave a $51,000 grant to the Wonderly Company in Kingston, bringing to a total of $327,000 in JDA loans out of a total of $800,000 being provided for industrial projects throughout the state.

Bell said that the Kingston Regional Office of the State Commerce Department also took part in the loan arrangements made possible under the legislation supported by the assemblyman which were amended during the recent session to allow low cost, long term loans for up to 40 per cent of project costs through local non-profit industrial development corporations.

Bell suggested that JDA is fulfilling its purpose which was to create new jobs, expand industrial opportunities and keep industry within New York State.

Youth Officer Answers Critic

KINGSTON — Charles E. Cooper, an officer in the Youth Division of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, has taken exception to several statements made last week criticizing the effectiveness of the Youth Division.

Cooper has responded specifically to a comment attributed to Ray Davis, a former first sergeant with the Sheriff's Department. Davis said, "Don't ask the Sheriff (William B. Martin), about the depressing non-record of his phantom-like operation, the so-called Youth Division. A close inspection of this little sheriff's hideaway for cronies indicates an almost zero progress report when compared to the excellent record of the local city police department."

Cooper, however, questioned where Davis obtained his information. He pointed out that the confidential Youth Division records "are kept under lock and key," and added that a check with the Kingston Police Department revealed that none of their records were ever given to Davis. "You can only assume what you want to assume," said Cooper.

Cooper also took exception to Davis' description of the Youth Division office as a "hideaway." He noted, "There is no hideaway. Our office was located at 296 Wall Street until the new jail was built, for there was no room in the Sheriffs' Office for the Youth Division."

He also denied that he is a "crony" of Sheriff Martin's. "Webster's Dictionary states a crony is a close friend of long standing," said Cooper, "I knew the sheriff when he was in high school, but no personally. I was first introduced to the sheriff by a friend in 1970. I would hardly call this a close friend of long standing."

And, in answer to Davis' charge that the Youth Division has compiled "an almost zero progress report," Cooper retorted, "You never saw any records so how could you make a comparison?" He called for "facts, not assumptions."

'Economic Problems Joint Responsibility'... Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has suggested that the voters will blame the Democratic Congress along with the Republican administration for the nation's economic woes.

But the Democrats' chief strategist said they will stress the economy as an issue in the fall congressional election campaign.

Ford said at his news conference on Wednesday that economic problems are a joint responsibility.

"So we are all in this boat together with labor and management and everybody else," the President said. "I don't think making partisan politics out of a serious domestic problem is good politics."

With the Watergate issue blunted by the resignation of Richard M. Nixon as president, Democrats figure to make such problems as inflation and unemployment major talking points this fall as they seek to increase their congressional majorities.

"I would expect and advise our candidates to campaign on those issues which are most on the minds of the voters, and this could certainly include our very serious economic situation," Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss said through a spokesman. "We are prepared to cooperate in any steps President Ford may take to improve these conditions.

"But we have the right and the responsibility to criticize his actions or inaction when we think he is wrong," Strauss said.

"I can't judge what the Democrats are going to say about my policies," Ford said. "They have been very friendly so far and very cooperative.

"I think it is a fair statement that our problems domestically, our economic problems, are the joint responsibility of government," he said. "As a matter of fact, I think the last poll indicated that most Americans felt that our difficulties were caused by government action and that, of course, includes the President and the Democratic Congress."

The survey he cited was a Gallup Poll taken in late June and early July. The question was whether government, business or labor was most responsible for inflation. Forty-eight per cent of those surveyed said government.

At the news conference, Ford also repeated that he probably will be a candidate in 1976 for the office he now holds by appointment and succession.

He also was asked whether he would run then with Nelson A. Rockefeller, now awaiting congressional approval as vice president.

"I think Gov. Rockefeller and myself are a good team, but of course, the final judgment in this matter will be that of the delegates to the national convention," he said.

Ford also said that as vice president, Rockefeller will have a major role in the new administration, in shaping domestic proposals and in foreign policy decision-making.

"Obviously, in addition, he can be helpful, I think, in the political arena under certain guidelines and some restrictions," Ford said. He did not describe the guidelines.

Textual Highlights of News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are textual highlights of President Ford's news conference Wednesday:

NIXON PARDON: "I am the final authority. There have been no charges made, there has been no action by the courts, there has been no action by any jury, and until any legal process has been undertaken, I think it is unwise and untimely for me to make any commitment."

PHILOSOPHY: "I don't think I have deviated from my basic philosophy nor have I deviated from what I think is the right action. . . . I don't think these are views that fall in the political spectrum right or left."

PRESIDENCY 1976: "I will probably be a candidate in 1976. I think Governor Rockefeller and myself are a good team, but of course, the final judgment in this matter will be that of the delegates to the national convention."

WATERGATE PREVENTION: "I will make the decisions and take the blame for them or whatever benefit might be the case . . . The code of ethics that will be followed will be the example that I set."

WAGE-PRICE CONTROLS: "Wage and price controls are out, period."

ROCKEFELLER: "Governor Rockefeller will take over my responsibility heading the subcommittee of the Domestic Council on privacy. Gov. Rockefeller, with his vast experience in foreign policy, can make a significant contribution to some of our decision-making in the area of foreign policy. Obviously, in addition, he can be helpful, I think, in the political arena under certain guidelines and some restrictions."

ECONOMY: "Herb Stein, who did a superb job for President Nixon, is going back to the University of Virginia, and Alan Greenspan is taking over . . . That is a distinct change . . . We are soliciting through the economic summit, the views of a great many people from the total spectrum of the American society . . . this will give us, I hope, any new approaches that are wise and beneficial."

ARAMCO OIL PRODUCTION RESTRICTIONS: "This points up very vividly the need for us to accelerate every aspect of Project Independence . . . it highlights the need and necessity for us to proceed with more oil and gas drilling a greater supply domestically . . . It does require, I believe, the short-term action by consumer nations and the long-term actions under Project Independence."

GI EDUCATION LEGISLATION: "I hope when Congress reconvenes within a week or so that they will go back to conference, take a good look and hopefully eliminate any inequities and keep the price down because it is inflationary the way it was."

BUDGET: "No budget for any department is sacrosanct, and that includes the defense budget."

CUBA: "If Cuba changes its policy toward us and toward its Latin neighbors, we of course would exercise the option, depending on what the changes were, to change our policy. But before we make any change, we would certainly act in concert with the other members of the Organization of American States."

Smiles Easily, Speaks Softly

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford smiles easily, speaks softly and talks with his hands.

Mostly, that's what Americans learned from watching Ford's television-radio news conference Wednesday.

The big news was that Ford had no big news to announce. For the first time in more than half-a-dozen years, Americans apparently have a President who is willing to hold news conferences for the simple sake of opening himself up for questions on topics of current interest.

That was the original purpose of presidential news conferences — but one never accepted as valid by Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, often said his boss viewed question and answer meetings with newsmen as opportunities to communicate what he had on his mind. Ziegler repeatedly rejected suggestions that his boss should be available for questioning regularly, even when he had nothing special to say.

Ford's press secretary, Jerald F. terHorst, says he expects Ford to hold news conferences about twice a month, but not necessarily before live cameras and microphones.

The contrast between Ford's news conference debut and similar appearances by Nixon was pronounced, especially considering the shared setting of the White House East Room.

Nixon used to stand before a blue velvet drape hung from iron pipes. So far as a TV viewer could see, he might have been standing anywhere.

Ford stood before an open door that gave TV watchers a glimpse down the carpeted marble hallway leading from the East Room to the state dining room.

Ford's demeanor under hot TV lights also offered a contrast with his resigned predecessor. Nixon wore make-up and perspired freely. Ford didn't even powder his bald spots and, if he was a bit tense at the outset, he looked cool throughout.

Ford's voice was lowered from the start — even a bit monotonously so and his exchanges with reporters were not only civil but friendly.

Ehrlichman Delay Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, saying that Judge John J. Sirica knows what he is doing, has refused to grant any further delay in the Watergate cover-up trial set to begin Sept. 30.

In a four-page opinion Wednesday, Burger turned down an emergency appeal from defendant John D. Ehrlichman that the trial be postponed at least until January on grounds of massive prejudicial publicity surrounding former President Richard Nixon's resignation.

Burger said any doubts about Sirica's decision to press ahead with the trial now —especially since a federal appeals court did not reverse it — "are not sufficient to form a basis for contrary action" by a single Supreme Court jurist.

"The District Court bears responsibility commensurate with its authority in such matters, and only in the most extraordinary circumstances should an individual . . . justice intervene," Burger said.

He said he could have referred the issue to the entire nine-man court when it returns Oct. 1, but noted this would have had the effect of putting off the Watergate trial until late fall.

Burger did note the "gravity of the claim of prejudicial pretrial publicity" in the cover-up case, but said these questions "must await the normal appellate process" if they arise once the verdict is in —in other words, if Ehrlichman is convicted.

Ehrlichman and five other former key Nixon aides, indicted last March in the cover-up, had been scheduled to go to trial Sept. 9. After Nixon resigned Aug 9, four of them asked for a lengthy delay on grounds extensive publicity about Nixon's admitted role in the plot had made a fair trial impossible.

Health Care for Poor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An estimated 11 million poor children finally are going to receive the free preventive medical care required by a law signed nearly seven years ago, says the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

It has made similar pledges before.

HEW estimates at least 6 million of the children will need dental care, more than one million will need correction of eye problems, and more than 300,000 will have hearing problems requiring attention.

"We can and should catch medical needs early, thus prevent them from developing into permanent disabling conditions that force their victims onto the rolls of the public treasury," HEW Secretary Casper Weinberger said in a statement prepared for a recent meeting of state medical officials and governors' representatives.

That also was the idea embodied in the 1967 amendments to the Social Security Acts which mandated "early and periodic screening and diagnosis . . . health care, treatment and other measures" for children eligible for benefits under the federal-state Medicaid program. HEW was supposed to have the plan in effect by mid-1969.

'Emergency Work'... A Slight Delay

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — Mayor Francis R. Koenig indicated today that "emergency work" on Spruce Street ordered six months ago would begin as soon as possible.

The "emergency" on Spruce Street, a narrow road connecting Hudson and Ravine Streets in the 11th Ward, was declared on Jan. 7, 1972 when then Alderman Edward M. Norton invoked "local law No. 1," closing the street to vehicular traffic.

Norton contended the street was unsafe for travel. Supports on the Rondout Creek side of the street had given away and the street took on a decided creekside tilt.

Mayor Koenig followed with an official proclamation closing the street on Jan. 11, 1972. Signs have been posted ever since warning persons that travel on that street is at their own risk.

On Feb. 3, 1972 bids were opened for major repair on the creekside retaining wall with James Berardi of Kingston submitting the low bid of $80,650. The high bid was $119,000 from a Poughkeepsie firm.

Despite the "emergency" nature of the work, nothing was done for more than two years.

In late February of this year, Mayor Koenig notified the Council, after receiving warning from the Department of Public Works, that the street had to be repaired under "emergency" contract. He advised the aldermen that Berardi's offer of $80,650 was still good and the aldermen approved the contract at their March 5 meeting.

That was almost six months ago and as of Wednesday, no work had been done on Spruce Street.

Asked about the delay, Koenig said initially that Berardi had not had the oportunity to get to it since he had been tied up with an urban renewal street-contract in Broadway East. Berardi also has that contract, sewage and water lines plus paving of periphery streets to Broadway East.

The mayor was then asked for his definition of "emergency" since no work had been done on Spruce Street under an "emergency contract" almost six months ago.

The mayor said he would contact Berardi immediately, indicating that work may begin soon on Spruce Street.

Koenig also said that Berardi intends to finish paving on those Broadway East periphery streets this year.

In other news from the mayor's office Koenig agrees with his Superintendent of Public Works Charles J. Cole that the City will save money with the use of the Jim Jackson road stripper on Broadway.

Koenig said that he and the Board of Public Works had anticipated some problems on Broadway but not to the extent encountered by the 20-ton pavement stripper.

Koenig also said that Cole is aware of the possible dangers to trees and shrubs along the curb from the machine which heats the pavement to 300 degrees. Several trees along Broadway have shown the effect of the extreme heat but the real concern is for East Chester Street from Hemlock Avenue to Broadway and from the railroad overpass to Manor Avenue on Albany Avenue. Trees along those routes are well established and highly valued by their owners.

Koenig said he has been informed by Cole that wrapping the base of the trees in burlap will protect them against the heat. He indicated the city would supply the burlap.

Koenig said the DPW crews plan to take "some of the hump" out the railroad overpass by lowering it some two inches.

Work on East Chester Street will commence next week with work on Albany Avenue to follow. Paving work on Broadway is currently underway.

Dems Give Views on Inflation

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

All four candidates in the Sept. 10 primary election for the right to represent the Democratic Party in this November's 27th Congressional District election were at the State University College at New Paltz Wednesday night, and they were generally agreed on inflation as the nation's number one ill and the campaign's main issue, though they varied a bit on how to combat it.

Their appearance was sponsored by the Student Government Association at the college, with the details worked out by SGA Coordinator Roger Green.

The candidates and their thoughts, in the order in which they spoke on the problem, were:

Matthew McHugh, an Ithaca attorney and former Tompkins County District Attorney, who called for a cut in "wasteful defense spending," particularly in the area of what he considered wastefully duplicative programs like the Trident program and the B-1 bomber, and a 2.2 million member armed force. "We're talking about billions of dollars here, not just nickels and dimes," he said. He blamed the budget deficits of the Nixon Administration for inflation, and also called for "meaningful tax reform," and the expansion of food supplies.

William Schechter, a Lake Hill resident, former Arthur Levitt and Robert F. Kennedy staff member, and now a financial-public relations consultant, said of inflation "I'd be very noisy about it. I'd be a hairshirt." He called for cuts in the defense budget and "more prudent spending" generally by government, and said a wage-price freeze could work if properly planned by a panel of top-level economists.

Robert Kropp, holder of the town supervisor's post for 10 years in the 65,000 population Town of Union and self-termed "common man's candidate," said there had been a new method of marketing a product evolving, called "creating a shortage." He advocated an 'excess profits tax" on all manufacturers.

Michael Sloan, a Binghamton resident on leave from his post at the Carnegie Foundation, said he favored wage-price "guidelines, not controls," a steadier and less politically-influenced supply of money from the Federal Reserve, a mechanism whereby members of Congress could see individual bills as they relate to the whole economy, federal emergency funds for drought-stricken agricultural areas, and a roll back of the price of crude oil.

Asked about their views on the possibility of a "veto-proof" Congress caused by a Democratic Congress was needed to effect the changes the country needs, and they saw nothing wrong with Democrats being elected to Congress in veto proof numbers. Only Sloan demurred, cautioning against giving Congress "so much power it makes the president impotent."

Asked if they felt familiar enough with the sprawling, 5,000-square-mile 27th District to properly represent it, they had varying responses. Sloan said his six years of work in Washington with foundations and Georgetown University had familiarized him with national problems; he said congressmen often busied themselves with issues best left to local and state officials, to the neglect of national business. Schechter said he would hold sessions with constituents every Friday night in Binghamton and Sunday afternoon in the eastern part of the district, "the year around." Kropp said the 27th was a relatively new district, and nobody could claim to know the problems of all of it, but he pledged to find time and space through "rapport" with local officials to make his appearance wherever necessary. McHugh said he would work hard to represent the whole district, and had run his campaign so as to demonstrate this.

On the question of governmental reform, McHugh called for public funding for federal campaigns, a limit to the terms of committee chairmen, a Congresional committee on "the entire national spectrum," and computer aid for congressmen. Schechter was for complete public financing of campaigns, a cut in the power of the House Ways and Means chairman, and said as a congressman any gift to him that wasn't something he could eat would be returned to a lobbyist "in a very public way." Kropp said stricter rules were needed for lobbyists, electronic surveillance should be curtailed, and greater controls were needed over all government officials. Sloan was for full disclosure of campaign contributions and how they were spent, televising the debates of important Congressional issues, and annual reports by congressmen on how they had voted and why.

Voter Apathy Scares Sloan

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

"The sensibilities of the American people have been so abused that they are now going through psychological recovery" from Watergate . . . "they want a period of rest to not think about politics," Michael Sloan Democrat candidate for Congress in tthe 27th District told members of the press at a conference Wednesday at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

And, if this is the case, Sloan is worried that voters will wait until 1976 to get interested in politics again. This he feels will keep people away from the polls in the interim and delay what he terms the need for progressive change.

Voter apathy will hurt the candidates, he said, noting that it is his party's big chance to make inroads this year in the district which has never been represented by a Democrat.

"If the American system of government is to have any meaning, voters must now go the polls . . ." he suggested.

Sloan indicated that there is great nationwide interest in the 27th Congressional District race and that it considered one of three key races in the country. If a Democrat should win, it would be a bellwether of the 1976 election, he said.

Sloan a Binghamton resident, faces three other Democrats in the Sept. 10 primary, William Schechter of Lake Hill, Robert Kropp of Binghamton and Matthew McHugh of Ithaca.

Voters have a very clear choice this year, Sloan said, either retaining things the way they are now or making things what they should be.
perience in dealing with government in Washington, D.C. Sloan, reflecting on the fact that all four Democratic contenders are of similar political philosophies, suggests that the question then remains, what kind of a congressman do the people want?

He said he is the only candidate in either party that has worked on issues regarding senior citizens, unemployment, education and foreign policy. He said he is also the only Democratic candidate who does not have any party leaders endorsing him — a situation which, he said, gives him the designation of an independent Democrat.

If voters want to avoid future Watergates, want inflation brought under control and feel there should be tax reform, then, he said, they must vote for the candidate that can best represent them and their concerns.

Sloan feels that if a Democrat were elected to Congress in the 27th District, he would have the distinction of not being just another freshman congressman. National attention focused on the district would in turn focus attention on him. And, when one receives attention, the 29-year-old candidate said, he becames influential.

Commenting on the presidency of Gerald Ford, Sloan indicated that President Ford is a good man for the post at the present time but he predicted Ford would "lull the people to sleep like Eisenhower. "I don't think there will be a rush to the polls this fall, he said. Apathy is the number two issue in the country today.

Of the incumbent Congressman Howard W. Robison, (R-27th Dist.) Sloan said he has exhibited" a single lack of leadership.

Of Edwin Crawford, one of five GOP contenders for the post, Sloan labeled him "very liberal" adding that his liberal views are" a well kept secret during his campaigning."

Concerned that there will be a low voter turnout on Primary Day, Sept. 10, Sloan said he is disappointed that both major parties have not made a more concerted effort in advertising the Primary date.

Nine Minutes Until Midnight

It was 27 years ago that the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists first presented to the public its doomsday clock with the hands indicating seven minutes until midnight. Since then the clock has been reset now and again — back at times when conditions seemed to warrant more optimism, forward when the threat of a nuclear holocaust seemed to have been heightened by events.

Two years ago Washington and Moscow signed the first arms control agreements resulting from the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), and the symbolic doomsday clock was set back to comforting 12 minutes until midnight. Now the clock has again been reset — but this time it has been forward three minutes and stands at only nine minutes until midnight.

There are disquietly compelling reasons for this. The SALT talks are floundering. India exploded a nuclear device last May, thus adding another to the roster of nations with nuclear weapons capability or potential. Both Egypt and Israel have been promised nuclear knowhow and equipment which edge them closer to joining the nuclear weapons club.

The situation has, in short, taken a decided turn for the worse. All of us had better heed the warning implicit in the statement by the editors of the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists:

"In recognition that our hopes for an awakening of sanity were misplaced and that the danger of nuclear doomsday is measurably greater today than it was in 1972, we now move the clock forward to nine minutes until midnight."

Off-to-College Thoughts

This is the season when a multitude of parents go through the bittersweet experience of sending a son or daughter off to college for the first time. Most of the parents have a hunch that in a sense they are losing their offspring — that the son or daughter will never be quite the same again. They are right, though this is not necessarily a bad thing.

A little insight into what is in store is to be found in remarks by Associate Dean Arthur Goldberg of the University of Rochester in New York at an orientation meeting for parents. "If you're going to get your money's worth from their college education in the next four years," he said, "your children will grow away from you in some ways. But you will be very good friends with your children by the time they are 35 or 40 years old."

This supposed word of comfort must have brought a sinking of the heart in many a momma and papa. The thought of alienation, even alienation merely "in some ways," must have loomed large; the prospect of friendship years hence must have seemed disquietingly remote.

Yet that is the way it is these days—and in some measure ever has been. When the little bird is shoved out of the nest into the milieu of the campus and told to fly, it flies! In the process it becomes different; in some ways it grows away from its parents. The consolation is that in time the process tends to come full circle. The children who "grew away" from their parents enter adulthood and find that, from this new perspective, they understand their parents better and cherish their loving friendship. It takes awhile—but it does happen.

Wolves and Bighorns

A couple of unrelated news items underscore a common point — that the preservation of our wildlife heritage requires unceasing altertness and positive action. This applies whether the creature be the timber wolf in Wisconsin or the bighorn sheep in California.

One of the two items told of the efforts of a young biology student, Richard Thiel, to prove — by wolf-howling in the remote woods and listening to the response — that wolves still exist in Wisconsin. The other concerns a legislative proposal to set aside 60,000 acres in the Angeles National Forest as a wilderness area, which would give the bighorns a chance to survive in the region.

Both undertakings have our support. Wolves or bighorns, they're both part of the natural inheritance that this generation must in good conscience pass on to the next.

Horrors of Saigon Prisons Detailed

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Rumors of injustice and corruption in Saigon have always been rife, but only rarely do secret documents from South Vietnam's own leaders confirm the existence of such sordid conditions.

The documents, directly from the files of Premier Tran Thien Khiem, show that prisoners were held without trial for up to five years and that others were acquitted but remained locked up.

In classified memos begging his ministers of justice and interior and the national police chief to discipline their underlings, the premier, a reputedly decent man, admits such horrors exist.

"Persons have been indicted and held for exceedingly long periods of time without being brought to trial," Khiem said. There are "191 prisoners . . . in Chau Doc re-education center; many have been held for two to five years without trial."

Some suspects including a "peasant woman from Ba Xuyen" were held without trial, then transferred to another camp where "they were virtually forgotten." Eventually, they were found not guilty.

But even those proven guiltless may languish in prison, Khiem complained. "After being acquitted or given suspended sentences (victims) were nonetheless held in prison (in) An Xuyen and Chau Doc provinces."

Some of these abuses, wrote Khiem, can be eliminated if "dishonest officials" are fired.

In a three-point program, the premier urges his interior, justice and national police aides to accord suspects their rights and come down on recalcitrant police who "decrease the honor of the national police forces and prestige of the government."

Footnote: In fairness, it should be said that the police and the prison system in North Vietnam are worse. In our visits to Vietnam and talks with captured Communists, we have found little evidence that Hanoi believes in the humane treatment of prisoners. And the torture stories of U.S. POWs, for example, brought no call for prison reform from North Vietnamese leaders.

BEATLE BLUES: In a case with Watergate overtones, ex-Beatle John Lennon is being hustled out of the United States on a six-year-old hashish charge while more than a hundred aliens with similar or worse drug records remain.

The singer-composer's major problem does not appear to be his 1968 guilty plea in England in unwitting possession of a small amount of "hash." Rather, his offense seems to be outspoken opposition to the Vietnam war and false rumors that he was going to lead a demonstration against Richard Nixon at the 1972 GOP convention.

We have learned that Lennon's serious troubles with the Immigration and Naturalization Service, a branch of the Justice Department, began after Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., began to find him troublesome.

In early 1972, Thurmond wrote a note about Lennon's activities to his friend, then Atty. Gen. John Mitchell. The cantakerous but candid Thurmond conceded to us he wrote to Mitchell but explained it was an "informational" letter about Lennon, not one calling for action.

Nevertheless, action swiftly followed the letter. Leon Wildes, Lennons' lawyer and former president of the prestigious Association of Immigration and Nationality Lawyers, told us:

"I intend to prove the letter resulted in instructions to then District Director Sol Marks (of Immigration in New York) to disregard Lennon's other equities and to scuttle any applications he might file until after he had been deported."

The record indeed shows that within days of Thurmond's letter, a stay for Lennon was revoked and strict deportation proceedings began.

Other records at Immigration show that more than 100 aliens with drug records have, unlike Lennon, been granted "non-priority decision" which permit them to stay in the United States indefinitely.

Our investigation turned up aliens not only with heroin but rape, murder, robbery, burglary, auto theft, perjury and even bigamy. All have been allowed to stay in the United States for "humanitarian" reasons.

In one case, an alien had six different convictions, including drug violation and rape and seven other arrests. Another was described in Immigration files as one of "the largest suppliers of marijuana and narcotics" in his area. At one time, an alien himself admitted to a "heroin habit costing $60 a day."

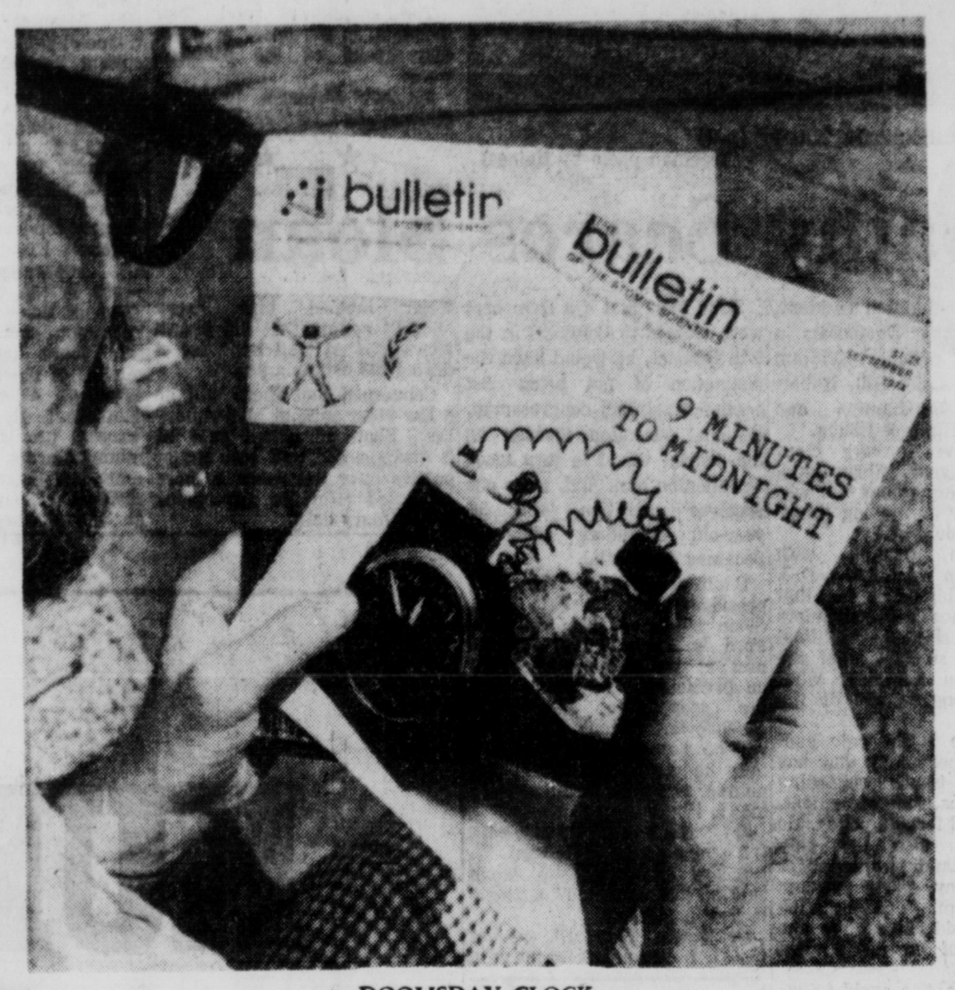

Compared to these, Lennon looks like a choir boy.

Unlike many other foreign stars who make big money in the United States and run, Lennon has begged for permission to remain here. His musical enterprises have generated some $50 million worth of business and brought untold tax revenues to local, state and federal collectors.

The legendary singing star has summed up his feelings about the immigration mess and his love for the United States this way:

". . . Nobody came to bug us, hustle us or shove us, so we decided to make (the U.S.) our home. If the Man wants to shove us out, we gonna jump and shout, 'The Statue of Liberty said, 'come!' "

Footnote: A spokesman for Immigration chief Leonard Chapman' said the Lennon case is being handled in a "routine way." Retired District Director Marks declined comment.

The Pan Am Crisis

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, Jr.

Concerning the imminent bankruptcy of Pan American Airways, a few observations:

1. A direct subsidy, by the government, is, or ought to be, excluded. It is always the easiest thing to do — to bail out an enterprise in economic trouble. It is usually the wrong thing to do. There are exceptions, mostly to do with the national defense. If the only company in the United States engaged in the manufacture of intercontinental missiles, is faced with bankruptcy, obviously you bail it out. But the normal way to do this is to pay enough more for the missiles to keep the company afloat.

Pan Am is not entirely unconnected with the national defense. A country the size of ours needs a strong back-up civil air force. And the facilities of Pan Am are extraordinary, perhaps even unique.

2. Pan Am argues that it cannot effectively compete for two reasons primarily. The first of these is that the airlines against which Pan Am does compete are for the most part subsidized by foreign governments. How — she asks — is it possible, let us say, to compete against Air France, when Air France receives a government subsidy greatly in excess of the subsidy Pan Am receives for carrying the mail?

It is true that foreign air carriers are for the most part government subsidized. And this permits them to continue to fl. passengers at rates that disguise the real cost. However, it is also true that the International Air Transport Association sets uniform rates. So that Air France flying passengers from Paris to New York must charge the same fare as Pan Am charges.

The suspicion is that having knocked off the private airlines, the public airlines would revise their fares upwards, to minimize the drain on the sponsoring governments. If Pan Am and TWA were knocked out of the skies, Air France would have a jolly time getting all American business to Paris from New York. For so long as it costs Air France more money than an American passenger pays out to make the trip, then in effect the French government would be making a gift of the difference to American passengers. But in fact, either the price would eventually go up; or, having knocked out the competition, the seats on Air France's planes would be so full that the line would become profitable.

3. Pan Am's second complaint is against the institution of cabotage. She is not permitted to pick up a passenger inside the United States except to land that passenger in another country. She has, in a word, no feeder airline. Clearly, before asking the United States government for ten million dollars per month, Pan Am should be permitted either to merge with a U.S. feeder line (the first step); or to merge with our other principal world airline, TWA. There can be no plausible excuse for standing in the way of such a merger under these circumstances.

We are reminded, once again, of the awful distortions caused by the increase in the price of oil. Pan American has been losing money for about seven years. But things were beginning to look up when we were zapped by the oil cartel. In the 12-month period after the quadrupling of the price of oil, Pan Am would need to spend an extra 200 million dollars for its fuel.

That sum, almost double the amount of the requested subsidy, reminds us of the great distortions that continue to be caused by the oligopolistic advantages of the oil exporting countries. And reminds us that we really have not developed a national strategy to protect ourselves against the ravages of that economic act of aggression. It is all very well to smile our way about the Middle East with the leaders of these governments. But meanwhile they are impoverishing the world, and bringing insecurity to great industrial institutions — like Pan Am.

We are talking here not economics, but politics. Oil is selling not at the price that would result from a free market bargaining situation; but at a price controlled by politicians. It is simply overdue for the United States Government to devise a formula for self-protection.

Marianne Means

Little Enthusiasm for Ted Kennedy

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. — California Democratic professionals unanimously say that if a primary for presidential candidate were held today the victor would be Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts.

That is not surprising, considering that Kennedy has consistently been the first choice of Democratic voters in the national public opinion polls for the past two years.

But what is surprising is that not a single one of those party pros, to whom I talked, was personally excited at the prospect. Kennedy does not seem to generate the emotional commitment that his two brothers did in this state, at least at this early stage.

Kennedy is a practical, rather than passionate, favorite. In a sense, he is ahead by default. His family name is so familiar, and other potential Democratic presidential candidates are so unknown by contrast, that the pros simply can't think of anybody else but Kennedy.

What happens if Kennedy does not run for President in 1976? "Chaos," replies Democratic State Chairman John Burton.

The pros seem fully prepared to support Kennedy, if he runs, because he currently looks like a safer bet than anyone else. But they have reservations about his candidacy, and many of them may hang back until he has proven himself in at least the first two primaries.

Some of the professionals worry about the effect of Chappaquiddick upon a Kennedy race in an era when high moral standards are an issue. They speculate that he might be able to win the Democratic nomination but would be a weak opponent in the fall against President Gerald Ford.

Other professionals suspect Kennedy might not be willing to work hard enough. A presidential campaign requires personal sacrifice and full-time politics. Thus far, Kennedy has shown little interest in inconveniencing himself for political purposes. He makes the right appearances and meets his responsibilities to the party. But politicians here complain that when he visits the state he refuses to make that extra telephone call which would be flattering but is not essential, and he insists on a relatively comfortable schedule which includes several events but leaves him what one pro describes as "play time."

Recognizing these private doubts about Kennedy, despite his great lead in the polls, nearly all the other possible presidential candidates — and some who are merely indulging in wishful thinking — have been taking soundings in this state for the past year. It is certainly a popular poltiical place to visit, and the fact that it is handy stop-off en route to Hawaii doesn't hurt.

Sens. Walter Mondale of Minnesota and Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, both of whom have already formed presidential committees, have each been to California about a half-dozen times. Bentsen was here two weeks ago, and Mondale is scheduled to return shortly before the November election.

Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson used to show up frequently, but since February he has been tied up in the Senate as the chairman of the committees coping with important energy and foreign policy issues.

Next to Kennedy, 1968 presidential nominee Hubert Humphrey receives the most requests to speak. Humphrey, however, is apparently wearying of politics, and has accepted only one appearance so far this year.

National Committeewoman Roz Wyman gave a reception recently for Arkansas Gov. Dale Bumpers, who defeated Sen. J. William Fulbright in the spring primary. With a wary eye to the future, California's Sen. Alan Cranston begged to be added as co-host, which was duly accomplished. Cranston has made the political miscalculation of sending out a fund-raising letter for Fulbright in which he indicated it would be foreign policy disaster if Bumpers won.

Fund-raisers have been held by the Democratic Party for such westerns as Sen. Frank Church of Idaho and Lt. Gov. Harry Reed of Nevada, who is that state's senatorial nominee.

Interestingly, 1972 presidential candidate George McGovern, who carried the primary here, is not in much demand by Democratic candidates as a speaker. Nor is former presidential candidate Edmund Muskie.

The Democratic National Committee indicated to at least one pro here that Ohio's Gov. John Gilligan would be willing to appear on behalf of candidates, but so far the pro has found no candidate who is interested.

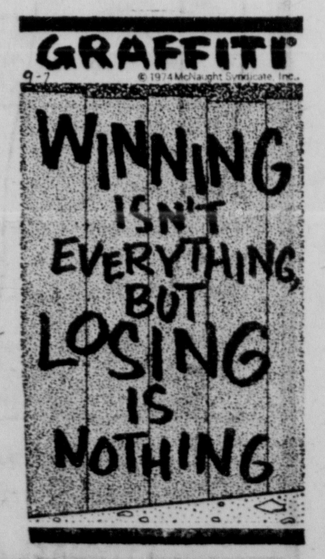

Kennedy will be here in mid-September to fulfill a commitment made to the Democratic State Committee more than a year ago. For two days, he will plug for the party's candidates — and possibly for his own future.

Senior Citizens Month at Museum

MONROE — Starting the day after Labor Day and continuing to the end of September, senior citizens and physically or mentally handicapped persons will be able to visit Museum Village of Smith's Clove for whatever they can afford, rather than paying the present $2 per adult admission charge.

During this period, this courtesy will apply to each eligible individual, and there will be no need for visits to be made on a group basis. Senior citizens will be asked to show their Medicare cards.

In announcing September as Senior Citizen Month at Museum Village, Director Christopher E. Belson noted that the museum's waiving of its regular admission price for senior citizens and handicapped persons in September was "a decision by the museum's board of trustees as a way of recognizing and responding to the financial situation of most retired people, who deserve an opportunity to enjoy our collection of 19th-century Americana."

Search for Masterpiece Continuing

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. Customs agents are searching for a Renoir masterpiece which disappeared somewhere on its way between London and its owner in Minneapolis.

Investigators said the trans-Atlantic air passage took less than a day. But more than a week elapsed before the carrying case in which the Renoir was shipped reached its destination.

The painting, an oil known as "The Lady in a Flowered Hat," is valued by its owner, Minneapolis attorney Samuel Maslon, at more than $100,000. He said it is insured for $150,000.

The carrying case in which the painting was packed left London on Wednesday, July 31, and arrived at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport about 5:30 p.m. on the same day aboard a Pan American World Airways flight.

The canvas, measuring 12 inches by 16 inches, was to be transferred to a Northwest Orient Airlines plane for the final leg of its journey to Minneapolis.

Authorities said the crate apparently remained at Metropolitan airport until 3 a.m. the next day.

The carrying case arrived at Minneapolis' Wold-Chamberlain International airport on Aug. 1 and was held in a "bonded" area for a week before being delivered to Maslon, investigators in that city reported.

Following prescribed procedure for costly imports, customs officials were present in Maslon's apartment when he opened the case on Aug. 8 and found it empty.

Customs officials at Metropolitan declined to speculate where and when the painting was removed from its carrying case.

They also were reluctant to discuss the delay or say how they handled the carrying case.

Maslon said he had sent the painting to London for possible sale at Christies, a world renowned art auction house.

Maslon said the painting had not been sold and was being returned to him. He refused to say how much he had asked for the Renoir, or even if there had been an offer for the painting at Christies.

Memo: to all business and professional men

Now...earn interest on your excess checking account dollars with our Dial-A-Matic savings plan.

As a business or professional man you are faced with constantly increasing expenses. Now, for the first time, we can help you save money. The bank where you now have your checking account is prohibited by law from paying interest on your checking account. Hudson Valley Federal helps you solve that problem. We pay you 5¼% interest on your "day-to-day" funds, and at the same time make this money immediately available to you.

What is Dial-A-Matic? Dial-A-Matic is a savings plan which pays you interest on the otherwise idle dollars in your checking account. But when you need the money to pay bills, it's immediately available. No waiting period is required.

Here how it works. You open a savings account at Hudson Valley Federal Savings. Immediately, you start earning 5¼% per annum, the highest rate permitted by law for regular savings accounts. When you need money in your checking account, simply call Hudson Valley Federal Savings, and ask to have money transferred to your bank. If you call us by 12 noon, we will transfer it to your bank the same day. For calls after 12 noon, we will transfer the money to your bank the next business day.

Who is eligible? Anybody who is in business — an individual, partnership, or corporation. Professional people are also eligible. At least $1,000 must be kept in your Dial-A-Matic account at all times. Transfers to your checking account must also be at least $1,000.

Exclusively at Hudson Valley Federal Savings. Remember . . . only Hudson Valley Federal can offer this new plan, because we have offices in every major community near most banks, Corporate accounts are not available at savings banks in New York State. No other financial institution in the Hudson Valley offers an interest-earning account as flexible and convenient as Dial-A-Matic.

Fair Activity Continues

RHINEBECK — The 181,490 visitors to the Dutchess County Fair have come and gone, but few realize that the fairgrounds are used on a continuous basis for various shows throughout most of the year.

Manager S. Richard Lloyd tells us that there is a great deal of activity at the grounds between fairs, horse shows, dog shows, a German Oktoberfest, the Great Northeast Crafts Show, and myriads of fund-raising events by many area organizations in the form of flea markets or days of history.

And during the cold winter months, the huge steel exhibition halls are used to provide indoor ice skating for the people of the Rhinebeck area in a town-village sponsored recreation program.

Plans for next summer's fair begin almost immediately after the Ferris Wheels and last stray sheep are rumbling down the road toward their destinations. Lloyd takes a brief respite, then plunges into the work within a month, visiting exhibitions and fairs around the East, setting up next year's contracts, working with the Dutchess County Agricultural Society on plans for capital improvements or policies, meeting with various local officials to smooth over any fair-related problems or interests, and being available for the right jobs at the right time, directing other exhibitions at the fairgrounds in the rules and regulations.

It was not a record crowd this summer, although close to the mark, and Lloyd admitted that the fairgrounds are about reaching their capacity in exhibition and parking space.

Biggest attendance for any of the six days came Thursday with a total of 40,593, a record for that day for the past 13 years. As fairs go, it ranks as second in the state among county fairs in attendance annually.

Students Are Heading Back to Bard Campus

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON — Students will begin streaming back to the Bard College campus Sept. 3 as freshmen and transfer students register, with classes for all scheduled to start Sept. 6.

An expected 175 freshmen and 34 transfer students will arrive the day after Labor Day for orientation sessions. Returning students will arrive Sept. 4, with formal registration scheduled for the 5th.

Parents of new students will receive an "orientation" of their own to Bard, to include a slide show, a campus tour, a history of the college, a meeting with administrators and a joint afternoon picnic at Blithewood overlooking the Hudson River with students and faculty.

Bard, in maintaining its 11.6 to 1 faculty-student ratio, opens with several new faculty appointments. They will include Dr. Mark Lytle, recently of Yale University, in the Social Studies Division; Dr. Leonel Antonio de la Cuesta from Johns Hopkins in literature; and Nancy Lewis and Muriel Miguel in drama-dance.

Concurrently, Bard's first Procter Art Center exhibition of the Fall Semester will highlight work by Lester Johnson from Sept. 10-29. Johnson, a contemporary realist whose street scenes exemplify a traditionally American atmosphere, teaches at Yale and has exhibited regularly at the Martha Jackson Gallery in New York. The show is open to the public without charge, and gallery hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily with opening reception 8-10 p.m. Sept. 10.

Subscribers to Dial Communications Service (DCS) have the option to change from a console equipped DCS rate to Dial PBX Series 500 Types 22 or 42 Service rates. The subscriber has 12 months from the effective date of the tariff to decide if changing to Series 500 Type 22 or 42 service rates would be beneficial to him. The subscriber may decide to make the change anytime during this 12 month period and the monthly rates for the Types 22 or 42 service would be applied as of the tariff effective date.

Rates and Charges

The rates and charges for the services which are being introduced were set forth in detail in a notice which was published in this paper on August 15. They are not repeated here, because the number of rates and charges involved resulted in an extremely lengthy and complex notice which is expensive to publish. The rates and charges are set forth in tariffs which are available for inspection at any office of the Telephone Company where business is transacted in person. The location of these offices can be found in the first pages of telephone directories. Tariffs are also available at the offices of the Public Service Commission.

Rightists, Pathet Lao Laotian POW Pact Includes U.S. Prisoner

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Laotian rightists and members of the Communist Pathet Lao signed an agreement today to release all Laotian prisoners of war, including civilian pilot Emmet Kay, the last known living American prisoner.

Under terms of the agreement, signed by members of the Joint Commission for the Implementation of the Peace Agreement, the exchange of prisoners will begin Sept. 19 at four locations in Laos.

Kay, of Honolulu, will be released along with the other prisoners, the commission said.

Kay was captured May 7, 1973, when his chartered plane, with government troops aboard, landed in Communist-controlled territory in Laos. He has been held in the Communist capital of Sam Neua ever since.

More than 300 other Americans are still listed as missing Laos.

Another 600 Thai prisoners of war and about 200 North Vietnamese held by the rightists, will be released in the exchange. The four locations for the release are Phone Savanh, near the Plain of Jars about 90 miles northeast of Vientiane; Pakou, about 85 miles north of Vientiane; a point on route 9 near Savannakhet, about 125 miles southeast of the capital; and a point on Route 23 in southern Laos, 225 miles south of Vientiane.

The spokesman said the biggest turnover would take place at Phone Savanh. He said officials hoped to complete the exchange in a single day, but it could spill over into several more days if there any complications arise.

He said he had no specific information on the release of Kay.

13 Reported Injured In Chattanooga Blast

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — A thunderous explosion leveled a building housing two lounges on Chattanooga's strip of nightclubs early today and set fire to an adjacent church and several nearby businesses and houses.

Police said at least 13 persons were injured, but "we have no reports of fatalities."

The explosion ripped through a one-story building housing the "Stardust Lounge" and the "Cactus Club" at 3:05 a.m., sending flames shooting 200 feet into the air and hurling debris more than a block away.

Investigators had no immediate comment on the cause of the blast, which left a smoldering six-foot-deep crater where the clubs had been.

Sgt. Don Weller and officer Rick Wynn of the Chattanooga Police Department were three blocks away when the blast occurred and said they found confusion and hysteria when they arrived.

"We saw people lying on the sidewalk and running from the buildings screaming their heads off," said Weller. "We went to what was left of the barbershop and pulled about five people from under the bricks. We stayed inside as long as we could trying to search for others but the walls started caving in on top of us."

Witnesses said flames from the explosion spread to Mack's Barbershop and a liquor store and then leaped to the St. James Baptist Church and several wood frame houses nearby.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, still struggling to right itself after three weeks of severe decline.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was fractionally higher, but losers took a 3-2 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said it appeared many frustrated investors had simply backed away with the approach of the three-day Labor Day weekend.

BEAMS APPROVAL — Justice Lawrence H. Cooke of Monticello, Democratic primary candidate for the Court of Appeals, greets Mary Jane Meyer, selected as 1974 Queen of the Lake Huntington-Cochecton Firemen's Field Day held recently. Justice Cooke was a volunteer firemen for more than 30 years and is a past president of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Cooke Proposes Rape Law Change

MONTICELLO — Appellate Division Justice Lawrence H. Cooke of Monticello has called for legislation that would prohibit defense attorneys from raising irrelevant details of a rape victim's prior sexual activity at a trial.

Judge Cooke made his proposal in a major speech before 300 members of the Women's Auxiliary of the New York State Firemen's Association at the City Squire Motor Inn in Manhattan.

"This proscription against cross-examining a rape victim about her prior sexual activity should not apply unless such activity involved the defendant himself," Judge Cooke said. "In this manner, the defendant will have a fair opportunity to produce any evidence legitimately relevant on the issue of consent, and at the same time, the victim of the rape will be spared the needless humiliation which often results from publicizing remote and irrelevant details of her private life," he said.

Judge Cooke, who has served on four state and county benches for more than 20 years, has been designated for one of two vacancies on the Court of Appeals in the Democratic Primary Sept. 10.

The jurist told the auxiliary that the criminal laws regarding rape "have had little or no deterrent effect." He cited statistics that showed in 1971 there were 2,415 rape complaints in New York City, and of that number only 100 were presented to grand juries, resulting in 34 indictments and only 18 convictions.

"There are far too many disincentives to reporting the occurrence of the crime," he said, "and as a result only a fraction of the rapes actually committed are brought to the attention of the law enforcement authorities. Thus, the sanctions of the criminal law are never invoked in the majority of instances of rape. Second, in cases which were reported, the requirement of strict corroborting proof often rendered the prosecution futile, thereby adding a major disincentive to making the charge in the first place."

Judge Cooke cited the rule which permits the defendant's attorney to conduct "a probing and intensely personal investigation of the victim's prior sexual history with a view of establishing the likelihood of her consent to the sexual relation to the defendant" as the foremost disincentive to reporting of rapes.

"Rape victims shudder at the excruciating experience to which they frequently are subjected on the witness stand, to the extent that the victim is often made to feel as though it is her life, recent and remote, that is on trial," he said.

Judge Cooke assailed a 136-year-old precedent in the law that held it was "common knowlede" that a woman who has once consented to intimacy with anyone is more likely to consent to similar relations with another than a woman who has never "lapsed from virtue."

In addition to the support of the Democratic State Committee, Judge Cooke is backed by the New Democratic Coalition. He has also been endorsed by the Liberal Party.

Schechter Favors 'Transit Stamp'

LAKE HILL — The nationalizing of the experimental "transportation stamp" program currently being tested in West Virginia is being advocated by Democratic candidate for Congress in the 27th District, William Schechter, who said it will "enable New York State's poor elderly and handicapped to overcome a vicious isolation-joblessness-starvation circle.

"Those of our citizens who are poor and past 60, and others who are physically handicapped, often are trapped in and near their homes and unable to get to a store, a hospital or a church when they want to for lack of transportation," Schechter said. "I fully subscribe to the program now being conducted in West Virginia which enables such citizens to purchase eight dollars worth of transportation stamps for use on public transportation for as little as one to five dollars, depending on their income. For example, a person with monthly income of $35 or less can get the full discount; a couple with a combined income of $217 per month, typical for retirees in West Virginia, can buy $16 worth for $10.

Schechter said, "the program also holds promise of keeping floundering rural bus lines in business and could restore such service in several communities throughout the 27th Congressional District. In the experimental program, a fleet of 10-passenger minibuses is being bought by community groups which will operate them and should be able to run them profitably, based on expected volume from the West Virginia transportation stamp program."

Schechter explained that the program is being conducted over four years at a total cost of $23 million, with the state of West Virginia contributing $6 million and the rest from regional and federal offices, including the Departments of Transportation and Health, Education and Welfare.

The Ulster County Democrat also explained that the nation's public transportation industry has been declining steadily since World War 2 despite skyrocketing fare increases since then, often as high as 350 per cent. Over the past 12 years, he said, some 120 public transportation companies have gone out of business.

Weyant Goes on Record Opposing Lloyd Plant

HIGHLAND FALLS — Mayor Jim Weyant, Democratic candidate for state senator from the 40th district, has opposed the planned nuclear plant in the Town of Lloyd.

"Over the past months I have attended several meetings both for and against this project," Weyant said, "and I am of the opinion that nuclear plants very possibly can be detrimental to the health and well-being of inhabitants."

Weyant also objected to the plant being located in the Hudson River Valley because of his belief that it would mar the scenic beauty of the area. He added, however that the Storm King Con Ed plant, as proposed, would be an improvement to the beauty of the site where it would be built, and that he wants the "fish question" to be settled immediately so that work on that project can resume.

Weyant said that as state senator he will urge power companies and governmental agencies to re-examine their location priorities. "I contend that if nuclear plants such as proposed at Highland are proven safe and desireable for the production of electricity, they should be located away from any density of population in the wilderness on large lakes.

This would accomplish two goals, the removal of the concern of the people for their safety, and the ending of further marring of our Hudson Valley," Weyant said.

Sala Scores Rolison on His Conflicting MTA Stands

POUGHKEEPSIE — Peter Sala, Democratic candidate for State Senate in the 39th District has accused incumbent Republican Sen. Jay P. Rolison of seeking additional state funds for the improvement of the Mass Transportation Authority while at the same time proposing that Dutchess County leave MTA.

Sala said that on July 29, Rolison, together with Assemblyman Betros, (R-99th Dist.) were quoted as saying that they would introduce legislation in the next session of the New York State Legislature to take Dutchess County out of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

Sala said, "Shortly thereafter, Philip Magnarella, his running mate on the Democratic ticket as the opponent of Betros, and he released a statement in which they cautioned against taking any such drastic step without careful and full study and consideration of all the implications of any such action.

"It now seems quite apparent," Sala said, "that Sen. Rolison had failed to give this important step the full consideration it deserved before shooting from the hip and making what appeared to be a politically appealing proposal but one which might have serious long term harmful effects on Dutchess County and the Mid-Hudson Valley.

"Ironically, on July 29, the same day on which Rolison and Betros called for our departure from the MTA, Gov. Wilson released a statement announcing that the State Department of Transportation had just approved a grant of $500,000.00 to the MTA for conversion of 25 diesel commuter trains for use on the Hudson and Harlem Valley branches of the Penn Central. In his statement the governor mentioned that several state Senators had urged and strongly supported this grant. Among them, Sen. Rolison," Sala claimed.

"Reading the two statements together, it now seems quite clear that on one hand Rolison was supposedly seeking additional state funds for the improvement of MTA commuter service to Dutchess County, while on the other hand he was proposing that Dutchess County leave the MTA," he continued.

Magnarella and I have warned against precipitate action taken in a political context and accomplished with insufficient study. It now would appear that this is exactly what Rolison has done," Sala said.

"How much thought could he have given to the proposed disaffiliation of Dutchess County from the MTA when he, during the same time frame, was supposedly seeking additional funds from the state for the purpose of improving MTA service to Dutchess County?" Sala asked. "The answer seems quite clear: Rolison gave little or no thought to the implications of this proposal, but took advantage of what he felt to be a politically advantageous situation.

"It is this type of politically motivated, but unthought out and unstudied, legislation which I propose to end. The result of legislation of this type is always thse same: the people get short-changed," he concluded.

Magnarella Bids Voters Pin Down Candidates

POUGHKEEPSIE — Feeling that most candidates will run on a "clean government platform this year which could well be long on rhetoric and short on specifics," Democrat Philip Magnarella of Poughkeepsie has urged voters to pin the candidates down and obtain firm commitments.

In a letter to his 99th District opponent incumbent Republican Assemblyman Emeel Betros, Magnarella said that "in view of what the country and the government has been through on the national level, campaigning as usual this fall is not what the voter needs and deserves.

"Candidates cannot, and should not be allowed to campaign through press releases and smooth party organizations. We must make a concerted effort to appear, in person together before the public, so voters can make an informed and confident choice."

Magnarella said that as a candidate he does not wish to look back on the tragedy of Watergate, rather he looks forward to restoring the confidence of people in our system of government. He said he believes it is his responsibility to bring campaigning to the pople, in open, frank discussions of the issues and to arrange the opportunity for the voter to hear both he and Betros.

Magnarella told the assemblyman that his staff is available to work with Betros' in order to set up a series of discussions during the month of October. He said that since the district is divided into eight towns, it appears this could be organized along those lines, with a session conducted in each town.

Opposes 4-Year Legislature Term

ROSENDALE — Rosendale Conservative Party has come out in opposition to the proposal to increase the terms of Ulster County legislators from two to four years. The question will be put to the voters of the county in the form of a referendum on Primary Day, Sept. 10.

Attilio A. Contini, a spokesman for the Conservatives, said they consider the proposal a move on the part of some legislators to make themselves less accountable to the voters. They feel that if the referendum is passed, the legislature will go the direction the United States Senate has gone. "Likewise, it will get the same taxpayer be damned attitude," he said.

Contini explained that "proponents of this resolution say that two years is not enough time for a legislator to become familiar with his duties and accomplish his goals. This is a poor excuse, which does not hold water. If our congressman, state senator and assmblyman can get things done in two years, so can a county legislator.

"If our county legislators are really concerned and want to do something for the people of Ulster County, we suggest they cast party politics aside and work for the common good of the county. Most of them seem to be more concerned with their political future then the good of the community," Contini continued.

"We ask the voters of Ulster County to come out in force for the Sept. 10 primary and reject this referendum, which should have never come to the floor of the legislature, let alone be submitted to the people on a ballot," he concluded.

All registered voters in the county may vote on the question, regardless of party enrollment or non-enrollment. Paper ballots will be used.

Got a lawn problem?

Grass thinning out...weeds starting to take over... brown patches here and there...too much shade?

Then read this!!!

Twenty two years ago we introduced Merion Bluegrass to the American home owner. We were enthusiastic about Merion because of its resistance to leafspot, a grass disease that was quite common and a great bother in Kentucky bluegrass lawns. Merion had other interesting qualities. It made a dense carpet like lawn, it was dark green in color and seemed to withstand dry weather better than grasses then on the market. Because of Merion's apparent superiority, we put most of our production in Merion Bluegrass.

Within a few years we became disillusioned with some of Merion's characteristics. We learned that Merion was highly susceptible to powdery mildew when planted in lightly shaded areas. Never-the-less, we found a chemical to combat powdery mildew at a low cost. We were again disappointed to learn that Merion just would not thrive in extremely hot weather. Finally we discovered that Merion was highly susceptible to a disease known as smut for which there was no cure. We realized that, at best, Merion in many cases was only a six to seven year lawn grass.

As a result of these disappointments we set out to discover a satisfactory grass that was disease resistant, shade tolerant, could withstand rough usage and still be beautiful in appearance. We set aside 14 acres of land to be used only for lawn grass research. We built a greenhouse so that grass studies could be conducted the year around. A scientific laboratory was set up for the purpose of studying grass diseases, cross-breeding and numerous other phases of grass culture. A Doctor of Plant Pathology was placed in charge of our research efforts. Exploration trips were made all over America, Canada, England, South America and other locations in search of outstanding grasses.

As a result of this research activity, we devoloped and found over 450 strains or species of outstanding lawn grasses. Two of these discoveries are available to you today. They are WARREN'S A-20 and WARREN'S A-34 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASSES. Other new lawn grasses uncovered by this research will be made available to the market as soon as they are tested by independent research organizations who have no financial interest in the sale of seed or sod.

WARREN'S® A-20 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS is highly disease resistant to most grass diseases. It will green up sooner in the spring and stays green longer in the fall. It has a pleasant dark green color and makes a dense carpet like lawn that can be mowed as low as one half of an inch . . . or up to two inches. It is rated first in overall performance by independent research organizations and universities that are doing lawngrass research.

WARREN'S® A-34 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS is the answer for problem lawns where dense shade makes the growth of a decent lawn impossible. WARREN'S A-34 does well in up to 65% shade, yet thrives in open sunlight. A-34 also carries a high performance rating by independent research organizations and universities.

WARREN'S A-20 and WARREN'S A-34 have been Performance Proven on tens of thousands of lawns, golf courses and athletic fields across the nation. If you have a lawn problem, why not rip out that old lawn and replace it with either A-20 or A-34. You will be pleased with the results.

WARREN'S A-20 is available as sod or sod plugs. WARREN'S A-34 is available as sod, sod plugs or seed. They may be obtained through your Garden Supply Dealer or Landscape Contractor.

Navy Volunteers Sought For Seafarer-Airman

KINGSTON — The U.S. Navy is looking for volunteers to enlist in the seafarer airman overseas homeport guaranteed program, according to L.A. Dachenhausen, in charge of the local Navy Recruiting Office, Broadway at Maiden Lane.

Under this program, the Navy guarantees male recruits assignment to a ship in the overseas homeport of his choice — Athens, Greece, Holy Loch, Scotland, Naples, Italy, Rota, Spain, Yokosuka and Sasebo, Japan.

Chief Petty Officer Dachenhausen reports that guarantees of overseas areas are made only for the initial assignment. The program is open to recruits who qualify in the seafarer-airman three-year enlistment program.

Recruits enlisting in the program attend basic training at one of the Navy's training centers — Great Lakes, Ill., Orlando, Fla., or San Diego, Calif. Upon completion of basic training, they will receive additional seaman, fireman of airman apprenticeship training for 2½ to four weeks duration depending upon the field selected before being assigned to navy ships homeported overseas.

Young men interested in this program should contact the local recruiting office.

Lefky, Caso At Oehler's for GOP Picnic

KINGSTON

State Attorney Louis J. Lefkowitz and Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, Nassau County Executive Ralph G. Caso, will be guests at the Sept. 7 Republican Family Picnic to be held at Oehler's Mountain Lodge from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. with serving between 1 and 5 p.m.

Philip Sinagra, of Hurley, a member of the Steering committee, also announced that State Sen. Edwyn E. Mason (R-48th Dist.) will be among the many state and federal representatives who will appear at the event which it is anticipated will atttract at least 1,500 persons.

Lefkowitz is a familiar figure to Ulster Republicans having visited here on many occasions, most recently in Ellenville.

Caso, who comes from Long Island, also has a summer home at Big Indian.

Among those working on plans for the picnic are Frederick J. Wadnola, Town of Ulster; Mary Otto, Town of Ulster ticket chairman; Paula Leonard, Town of Ulster, ticket chairman; Norman Fowler, Woodstock ticket chairman; Edwin Callahan, Town of Ulster and Donald LaFera, Town of Marbletown.

The Family Picnic is an outgrowth of the many town picnics held in former years. This year it was decided that a number of towns would join forces and put on one big event instead.

State Backs School Board In Bus Dispute

KINGSTON — State Education Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist has ruled in favor of the Kingston Schools Consolidated Board of Education in its dispute with a Tubby Street couple involving bus transportation for their kindergarten age child.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. McArdle of 91 Tubby Street contended last spring that the school district should provide transportation for their child to St. Peter's kindergarten school.

The district refused, stating that the walking distance from the McArdle Home to the school was under one mile. According to school officials, it measured out as 95-100ths of a mile, about 265 feet short.

The McArdles argued that the distance should be measured over public transportation routes and since a one-way street was involved, the distance (by bus) would have been greater than one mile. They conceded that the walking distance was under a mile.

Commissioner Nyquist upheld the school board in ruling the walking distance is the criteria.

School transportation officials told the Freeman they employ a survey speedometer that measures distances down to hundreths of a mile. It is calibrated every year.

C-H Against PSC Plan

POUGHKEEPSIE — The Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation has released a statement commenting that it will continue to oppose a plan to provide partial relief from fuel adjustment costs to electric space heating customers, declaring that it would discriminate against the utility's other customers.

Ernest E. Althouse, Central Hudson president, said the proposal by Public Service Commission Examiner Stewart C. Boschwitz "violates the basic principle of fairness in rate making, which is to establish rates which reflect the cost of providing service."

On July 31, following hearings held in New York City, Boschwitz recommended that four downstate utilities, including Central Hudson, relieve space heating customers from bearing their full share of the fuel adjustment charge.

While deploring the inflation that has caused rapidly rising consumer costs, Althouse said, "We believe, however, that the fuel adjustment clause is an appropriate, fair, equitable and non-discriminatory way in which to reflect changes in costs imposed upon utilities by oil market conditions over which they have no control . . ."

He said that although electric heating customers have experienced a substantial increase in the cost of service, users of some heating oil have seen their heating costs rise on a comparable basis, and claimed this action would put an even greater burden on "all of our other customers. . ."

'Good Water', Roadwork, Traffic

By TIM SCHUSTER

ROSENDALE — The Village of Rosendale has a good source of water, reported Mayor Robert Sheehan Wednesday night, according to the Ulster County Department of Health.

Sheehan said he had met with Dean Palen of the Health Department about two weeks ago to review the village's water supply, and upon inspection it was found that its pond was in good shape.

It was recommended that weeds be cleaned out along the edges, and also was stated that the chemicals added to the water "by the previous administration" should be kept out.

While the source of water can be counted among Rosendale's blessings, Sheehan added, "It's when you get to the system, the mains, that problems begin."

Sheehan also met Wednesday with a representative of the New York State Department of Transportation regarding the blacktopping that is being done along Main Street. The word he got was that it would be completed as soon as possible.

It seems that the state's blacktopping machine is waiting parts, and roadwork is about three weeks behind schedule in this area.

And one particular drainage problem, near the Valley Inn, was pointed out as a result of roadwork. This will be corrected also, said Sheehan.

He alluded to a "traffic problem" in the vicinity of Valley Inn also, declaring that the fire hydrant at that spot had been knocked down by cars seven times in the past year.

New signs are up on most village streets, and signs proclaiming that one is entering the Village of Rosendale will be erected shortly.

A bid of $7,400 for a 1974 four wheel drive pickup truck from Albany Avenue Garage was tabled. The village decided not to go for a 1975 vehicle, as the price tag would probably be about $1,000 higher.

With Sheehan and Trustee Harriet Mulligan present (Barbara DeStefano is on vacation), the board approved the permanent appointment of Larry Arnold as village patrolman. He had been on a six-month probationary period.

Another patrolman, Charles Foster, is also on the Sheriff's Department staff, and the board wanted to ascertain whether there would be any conflict of interest before appointing him permanently.

Village clerk Kathy Mihm did not mak the meeting. She reportedly gave birth to a baby girl Tuesday night in Kingston, and both were said to be 'doing well.'

Winners Named in Singer's 1974 Young Stylemaker Contest

Winners in this year's Young Stylemaker Contest sponsored by The Singer Company have been announced by Gordon Pinkosz, manager of the Kingston branch, 324 Wall Street. Local first prize entries have been shipped to Boston, Mass., to enter the Regional Contest.

Entries were judged for workmanship and style-rightness and each girl modeled her garments at a fashion show earlier this month at St. Joseph's School Auditorium. The contest was divided into three age groups.

Commentator for the show was Miss Mary Beth Smith of Hurley who was a national winner of the Young Stylemaker Contest in 1967.

First award in the junior division, ages 10 to 12, went to Linda Yochman, age 10, of 72 Robin Lane, Kingston, for her melon colored A-line dress made with gathered sleeves and trimmed with white embroidery and lace. Second place was won by Maria Reck of Connelly; third place by Diane Harrison of Lake Katrine.

Jean Kren, age 15, of Ulster Park placed first in the Intermediate Division, ages 13 to 15, with a jacket and pants ensemble in tangerine with coordinated plaid lining and a white double knit top with short sleeves. The second place winner was Jacqueline Baschnagel of Saugerties; third place, Chris Brito, of Rolling Meadows.

The senior Division, ages 16 to 18, first place went to Pamela Berry of West Hurley for her ensemble of bright plaid coat with quilted lining, charcoal grey pants and burnt orange body suit, scarf and hat.

Sewing instructor for the classes this year was Miss Gertrude Schaffner. Judges were Malinda Davis, Susan Schoonmaker and Susan Rose.

First prizes for the girls were Norelco Untanglers.

Woodstock Women's Center Scheduled to Open Soon

The Woodstock Women's Center will be a place for women to get together to talk about common problems, to share information, to exchange skills, to study, and to use for women's activities in general.

The Center needs women's help, women's ideas, and women's support.

Donations for the Woodstock Women's Center, particularly furniture, feminist and do-it-yourself literature, paint, and money, are needed.

All area women are invited to attend an organizational meeting Sunday, Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Center. Hillcrest Avenue is the first left turn off Neher Street.

Cecilia Fasano of Woodstock may be contacted for further details.

For the first time in the Kingston, Saugerties areas, La Leche League will begin a Couples' Series. The series will start September 13 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Usticke, 98 Clifton Avenue, Kingston.

La Leche League was founded to help new mothers who wished to breastfeed their babies but had no outside source for help and encouragement. Each month, the number of La Leche League groups has grown bigger; to date there are more than 1700. Fathers are playing a more active role of support and encouragement for their breastfeeding wives and nursing children, and their active participation in the birth experience brings them ever increasingly into the total family centered aspects of childbirth and childrearing; in essence, preparation for parenthood. It is with this in mind that the Couples' Series has been initiated. Those who plan to breastfeed or are presently nursing are urged to attend.

Running simultaneously with the Couples' Series will be "women only" meetings held the third Tuesday of each month at the home of Mrs. Linda Donaldson, Barclay Heights, Saugerties, and the last Wednesday of each month at the home of Mrs. Ginger Malloy, 36 Alcazar Ave, Kingston.

Leading the discussion at the Couples' Series will be Mrs. Pam Usticke, who founded the local Kingston League in September of 1970. Co-leading for the series will be Mrs. Ruth Scogna, also of Kingston. Supporting leaders will be Mrs. Charlie Andrews of Rosendale and Mrs. Linda Donaldson, Saugerties. The Couples' Series will run the second Friday of each month for four months. Topcis include Advantages of Breastfeeding; The Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties; Baby Arrives and Nutrition and Weaning.

Anyone wishing further information regarding any of the series should contact Mrs. Pan Usticke, Kingston; Mrs. Ruth Scogna, Kingston, Mrs. Cheri Andrews, Rosendale; Mrs. Linda Donaldson, Saugerties.

PREPARATION FOR PARENTHOOD — A new Couples' Series has been initiated here by members of La Leche League. Preparing for the first meeting on September 13 are (L-R) Ruth Scogna, LL leader; Paul Scogna; Pan Usticke, LL leader; Gordon Usticke, seated, holding his daughter Roxanne, age three months. Behavioral Expert Examines Consumerism

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Everyone talks about consumerism, but what are we doing about it? We should educate ourselves and our children further, says a pioneer in the field of motivational research.

"The consumer often does not know his own wishes and needs," said Dr. Ernest Dichter. For instance, consumer groups and the government ordain that labels spell out ingredients, weight and chemicals in a product.

But said Dichter, "our analysis shows that relatively few women read labels" often dismissing the matter with the comment, "it's too boring for me."

"It has been agreed that mothers should avoid offering sugar-coated cereals to their children because they are bad for the digestion and their teeth," Dichter said.

"But mothers told us, 'this is true, but what shall I do with my kids? They refuse to eat anything else. I don't have the knowledge or the patience to re-educate them.'

"We have suggested to cereal manufacturers that they offer humorous lessons in proper nutrition on the package. Partially this was carried through . . . but it is our analysis . . . that it is not always the manufacturer who is the bad guy, but quite often the consumer who is the weakling. The consumer does not control his own desires and needs sufficiently . . ."

Dichter is founder and head of the institute for Motivational Research, at Croton-on-Hudson, N.Y. His views on consumerism are in his regular bulletin., "Findings," which goes to institute clients.

Dichter said he didn't want to excuse advertiser or manufacturer in any way but sometimes the consumer is the victim of consumerism. He cited the meat boycotts "which hurt consumers" by delaying and reducing the slaughtering of animals, thus driving prices higher.

"What we need," he said, "is a systematic campaign in order to motivate people in such a way that they do those things that are really better for them."

He called for an "organization which works not only with legislation and coercive measures but one that uses modern methods . . . to educate people better.

"Consumerism has achieved many good things. For example, it has made people aware of the fact that we are not living in a perfect world and it is our fault if we are being cheated and mistreated.

"If we want consumerism — and I certainly am for it — we should start with the child. Fairy tales can have one of the most dangerous influences on the souls of children.

"The princess is always covered with diamonds. Violence appears on almost every page . . . heroes frequently give their lives for their fatherland without even bothering to figure out whether the same dispute could have been resolved by discussion and compromise.

"We should reflect on the vices as well as the virtues of consumerism, then apply the best attitudes to the early training of children and this means reflecting on the effect of children's books and programming of the media."

Ward-Felice Wedding Vows Are Exchanged

The wedding of Miss Linda Claire Ward of Leisureville Apartments, Watervliet, to Joseph Hollis Felice of Delaware Avenue, Albany, took place Saturday, August 17, 2:30 p.m. at St. John the Evangelist's Church in Veteran. The Rev. Francis X. Leonard officiated. Organist was Edward Kerchner.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin J. Ward of 7292 Route 212, Saugerties. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Felice of Lockport, N.Y.

For her wedding gown the bride chose white chiffanella styled with a circular skirt, attached train and modified plunging neckline. Venise lace and satin ribbon trimmed the bodice. Lace trimmed the deep cuffs of the long fitted sleeves. A matching lace cap held a three tiered silk illusion veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of white and pink roses, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert Earley, sister of the bride of Islip Terrace L.I., was matron of honor. Attendants were Mrs. Thomas Murphy, cousin of the bride, of Blue Mountain and Miss Martha Felice, sister of the bridegroom, of Lockport. They wore pink polyester knit A-line gowns styled with plunging necklines, and matching floor-length capes. Their headbands were variegated miniature carnations and baby's breath and they carried bouquets of pink roses, miniature carnations, baby's breath and deep pink hill flowers. Miss Marna Marie Early, niece of the bride, of Islip Terrace, was flower girl and wore an emsemble styled like the attendants'. She carried a white basket of assorted pink flowers and baby's breath.

Best man was Mike Ellis of Albany. Ushering were Rod Hewitt of Niagra Falls; John Ranalli and Nick Brancasi, both of Albany. Eugene Earley, nephew of the bride, of Islip Terrace, was junior usher; and Richard Earley, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

A reception was given at Highwoods Sportsman's Club.

The bride was graduated from St. Mary of the Snow and Saugerties High School and State University at Albany, class of 1972, where she received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Music. She is manager of the EZ Shop at Slingerlands. Her husband was graduated from Lockport High School, Niagara Community College and received his Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology at State University at Albany. He is employed by New York State Transportation Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Felice will make their home at Leisureville Apartments, Watervliet.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: We drove 500 miles to attend the wedding of a relative. Our son was to be in the bridal party. The wedding was to take place at 4 P.M. on Saturday. On the Friday night before the wedding, the bride and groom got into a fight and the groom broke the bride's nose so the wedding was cancelled.

What do we do with the wedding gift we were going to take to the church? Who pays for the tuxedo our son rented for the occasion and never got to wear? And how about the motel bill?

I think the bride's parents who invited us here for nothing should help us out. Should we ask them to?

STUCK IN ILLINOIS

DEAR STUCK: That's what you are. Stuck. Stuck for the wedding gift — unless you can return it. You're stuck for sure for your son's rented tuxedo, and you're stuck for the motel bill.

And no, don't ask the bride's parents to help you out. They've got enough trouble trying to comfort a bride with a broken nose.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband died very sudenly not long ago. It was a terrible shock as he had been in the best of health and had no warning whatsoever. We had 43 good years together, which is more than many couples have, but somehow, I still feel cheated.

I was in such a state of shock when this happened that my eldest daughter took me to her home where I stayed for three weeks. When I returned to my own home, I was stunned to find that every trace of my beloved husband had been removed. Not one thing belonging to him remained!

My two daughters and one son (all married) took it upon themselves to go through my house and dispose of all their father's clothes.

I broke right down and wept. They tried to explain that they thought they had done me a big favor.

Abby, wasn't it MY right to dispose of my late husband's things in my own good time? Perhaps I wanted some memories of him around.

It's too late in my case, but please print this for others who one day may presume to do what my children did.

CRUSHED

DEAR CRUSHED: Please consider the motivation. They undoubtedly wanted to spare you what they thought would be an agonizing task. But you make a good point. Perhaps they should have asked.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old male college student. I am being married in the near future. Both of us would like to have a big wedding and invite our many friends, but the cost would empty her parents' pocketbook.

My fiancee and I feel that the traditon that says her parents must foot the bill for the wedding is entirely outmoded, but I'm afraid her folks would feel hurt if my parents offered to chip in.

As it stands now, my future in-laws feel a bit inadequate alongside my well-to-do-family.

If you can come up with a solution, it would be a most welcome early wedding gift.

DOOMED GROOM

DEAR DOOMED: Why not break with tradition in the interest of common sense? Perhaps your future in-laws wouldn't be as "hurt" as you think if your parents chipped in for the kind of wedding you want. Ask them. If they refuse, go the traditional route, and after you return from your honeymoon, your parents can throw a party for you and all your friends.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS' ...it tells you how

What's summer without at least one good, old-fashioned fish fry . . . and what's a fish fry without corn bread! Every good cook, of course, has his or her own "special" corn bread recipe. It's always fun to try a new one, however . . . and the following recipe was taken from The Deaf Smith Country Cookbook.

Mix together 3 cups of stone-ground cornmeal, 1 teaspoon of salt and 3 tablespoons of corn oil. Pour 2 cups of boiling water into the mixture and stir well. Add one cup of milk and let batter cool for about 40 minutes. Stir in 1 beaten egg and 3 teaspoons baking powder . . . then pour the mixture into a hot, well-oiled 8" X 8" pan or muffin tins. Bake at 425° F for 30–40 minutes and serve hot. With lots of butter!

As many good cooks (especially in the Southwest) know, two parts of corn and one of beans—properly prepared—are almost equal in protein to fresh milk and meat. For ten budget-stretching, traditional, pinto-bean-and-corn recipes straight from Mexico, send 10¢ and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS®, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304. Ask for Reprint No. 107, PINTO BEANS AND CORN.

CASUAL ELEGANCE — The nation's new First Lady Betty Ford, left, and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, wife of the vice presidential nominee, project much the same in their choice of clothes — casual elegance. The consensus among fashion watchers is that neither woman will be an innovator. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Fashion Images of Betty and Happy

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — There will be no pantsuits at White House events for the nation's new First lady. Nor will there be a change in her preference for basically simple clothes, even as her lifestyle must change.

Frankie Welch, who's been selling "off the rack" to Mrs. Ford the last 12 years, quotes her as saying that she will wear dresses for white House occasions. She does have pantsuites, however, for such times as when the Fords get away to Camp David or to Vail, Colo., where they ski.

Neither will Betty Ford, a five-foot-seven brunette with hazel eyes, go on one big shopping spree now that's she is thrust into a new national spotlight.

She told Mrs. Welch, "I can't throw everything out" but the woman who runs the fashionable Alexandria, Va., shop, said Mrs. Ford will be adding "more as needed."

On the day Gerald Ford was sworn as president, Mrs. Ford selected a favorite blue knit that Mrs. Welch had hastily cleaned the night before and delivered to the Ford residence in Alexandria, Va., the next morning.

For the President's first speech to the Congress, she wore a yellow linen dress with the same lines. And for the first state dinner she and her husband hosted, for King Hussein of Jordan and his wife, she wore a long white crepe also "off the rack."

Mrs. Welch, in a telephone interview from her shop near the capital, called Mrs. Ford's image "one of casual elegance. She tends to lean lines, but selects things that will go up and down stairs gracefully, and will sit and travel well. She wants her hemlines just covering the knees and has remarked that it is the privilege of women to wear hemlines where they wish."

The new First Lady, "very supportive of American designers," buys in the retail $40 to $140 price range, said Mrs. Welch. Some of the labels in her closets are Kasper of Joan Leslie, Jim Baldwin, Justin McCarty, Ciao Knits and Mollie Parnis Boutique.

The fact she's a former model and dancer has influenced Mrs. Ford's clothing style. She also displays clothes better now that she has dieted off 25 pounds and gone from a size 10 or 12 depending on style to a size six.

Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, wife of the vice presidential nominee, projects much the same image as Betty Ford.

"Casual, simple, well cut, well made, good lean lines," said Norman Johnson, head buyer for the designer dress department at Saks Fifth Avenue stores. "Mrs. Rockefeller knows her figure."

He said Happy used to come into the store but now a secretary usually calls and the salon sends out a "pot pourri" from which she selects.

Mrs. Rockefeller, as a woman of great wealth, can afford originals. She used to show up in New York Seventh Avenue showrooms of such designers as Norman Norell known since Norell's death as the House of Norell, Bill Blass, Oscar de la Renta or Pauline Trigere to get an advance look at collections before ordering through stores. She also wears Paris couture.

Designer Blass said Mrs. Rockefeller is a "sporty type. She doesn't make a big thing about dress . . . not ostentatious in any way." Since her husband's nomination, she's been photographed in pants and shirts at the family swimmer home in Seal Harbor, Me.

"Mrs. Rockefeller has that Good Family, Ivy League look," Norell said once, "She will always look right, never guissied-up, never silly."

Mrs. Welch, a native of Rome, Ga., studied design at Furman University, the University of Georgia, and University of Wisconsin. Her Alexandria shop opened about 12 years ago and others are planned for Birmingham, New Orleans, and Macon. Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(c) 1974 The Emily Pist Institute, Inc.

Distributed by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd:, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: I will be married this winter. If soneone asks us what we would like as a wedding gift, would it be rude for us to answer "money"? If people really did not want to know what you wanted, then would they bother asking?

My fiance and I talked it over and decided that if people give us gifts of money we can purchase what we want instead of exchanging gifts that we can not use.

TERI

Dear Terri: There are at least four good reasons, and probably more, for not asking for money as a wedding gift, unless it is an accepted custom in your ethnic group or community:

1. People who cannot afford a very generous amount feel embarrassed to give a check for $5 or $10, whereas a carefully selected or home-made gift can appear to be much more of a present.

2. Except in a very few cases, it is in bad taste, and it makes a person seem very "commercial" to ask for money.

3. A wedding gift should be something lasting that will serve as a memento of the donor.

4. Although you would never purchase some of the articles you receive as wedding gifts, they will have lasting value and will be used and cherished throughout your married life. If you ask for money, it will soon be spent on practical necessities and you will never have the lovely crystal, silver, etc., which will mean so much to you in later years.

Dear Mrs. Post: Did I err when I addressed a wedding invitation to my sister and her husband as Mr. and Mrs.? He has a doctorate in chemistry. When they went to Europe, there itinerary was headed "Dr. and Mrs."

MRS. R. J.

Dear Mrs. J.: If a man refers to himself as "Dr." and if he is also called "Dr." by his professional associates, it seems certain that he wishes to be addressed as "Dr." and all mail, weather social or business, should be addressed to him thus.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Posts Etiquette. The question chosen and its answer will be published in this column. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman, and don't forget to include your name and address.

MOSES MALONE

High School Whiz Signs With Utah of ABA

Moses Finds 3 Million in Bullrushes

PETERSBURG, Va. (UPI) — The next time Moses Malone writes his name, he can add the middle initial "M" to his signature. "M" for millionaire.

With quick, brief strokes of a pen, the Petersburg, Va., teenager Wednesday vaulted from 19 years of poverty and doing without to the strange, new world of money, more than he perhaps ever knew existed, and surely more than he once ever expected to earn in a normal lifetime.

Sitting in the office of Washington attorney Donald Dell, Malone, his mother and officials of the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association agreed to terms of a professional basketball contract estimated to be worth over $3 million.

In a matter of seconds, it was over. Weeks of secret meetings, hide-and-seek games and "now you see me, now you don't" melted into wide grins as Malone turned aside a scholarship to the University of Maryland—and a probable national college championship—to become the highest paid teenager in pro basketball.

In signing, Malone said goodbye not only to a college career but to life in an old, tired two-story frame house, to hearing about all the money he might make but not being able to see it, to being just plain poor.

The tall, lanky youth went through a similar epic at the end of his high school career when every major college in the nation wooed him. According to a close family friend, some schools, apparently envisioning the grandeur of national prominence, tried to lure him with cash, cars, clothes and women.

For most of his final year at Petersburg High School, Malone was the object of a recruiting assault so intense that it drove him into frequent periods of hiding and sent his mother to a hospital with a bleeding ulcer.

The phone never stopped ringing, the kindly-worded letters from colleges across the land never stopped pouring in and the offers to "come see our school" never ceased.

Then, at 7:15 on the morning of June 20, Malone ended it all as he wiped the sleep from his eyes and signed a letter of intent with the University of Maryland. Head Coach Lefty Driesell finally had all the ingredients for the national championship team that had eluded him for so long.

Malone immediately moved from Petersburg to live near the school and work at a $7 an hour construction job. His mother was happy that he chose Maryland as it was relatively near to home and she could see him play often.

But then, enter the Utah Stars.

The club had selected Malone in the third round of the ABA draft but many considered it only a token gesture. After the Stars made their first offer, many were sure it was only a token.

Sources close to Malone said the first Utah offer was "only a couple of hundred thousand dollars," nothing compared to the figure he might demand after two years in college.

When the Stars passed into the ownership of James Collier, however, tokenism was replaced with cash—a lot of it.

Stars officials began courting the youth, seriously offering him a contract that would end permanently money and security problems for Moses and his mother, a $100 a week employe of a Petersburg grocery store.

Suddenly, the recruiting battle began again, but this time it was college against pro, scholarship against money, Maryland against Utah.

Driesell blasted the Stars, calling team officials "ruthless and underhanded." He called Utah's contract "peanuts" and said Malone could easily command higher offers after only one year at Maryland.

Malone reverted to the hide-and-seek tactics he used during the college recruiting war, occasionally coming out of hiding to talk, first with Utah, then with Maryland, then Utah, then Maryland.

When Utah arranged a news conference for Wednesday afternoon, the day classes began at Maryland, Malone appeared ready to sign.

But he changed his mind and, instead, drove to Maryland where he met with Driesell and Maryland basketball players, hanging around campus to play basketball in the afternoon and the piano that evening in the school's student union.

After eating dinner in the school's cafeteria, Malone quietly eased into his red and white Chrysler Imperial and drove to Dell's office. In minutes, it was over. He was a millionaire.

McGinnis: Still Pacer

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — George McGinnis apparently will pass up the bright lights of New York and remain an Indiana Pacer, becoming one of the highest-salaried stars in the American Basketball Association.

It appeared earlier that the New York Knicks of the rival National Basketball Association had almost lured the high-scoring 6-foot-8 forward away from the Pacers, a team he has been with since leaving Indiana University after his sophomore year three seasons ago.

But sources close to the situation said Wednesday evening that McGinnis had decided to stay with the Pacers, accepting a six-year $2.5 million contract.

The Pacers called a news conference for late Wednesday night but later postponed it indefinitely. Word was that McGinnis' agent in New York—and possibly McGinnis himself—were grounded by bad weather and could not fly here it time for a final examination of the new contract.

The sources said McGinnis finally accepted the Pacer offer after the Indiana club agreed to pay him over the six-year period instead of 10 to 15 years.

The Pacers had gone to court in an effort to prevent McGinnis from negotiating with the Knicks. The ABA team had obtained temporary restraining orders against McGinnis, his agent, the Knicks and the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA, preventing any negotiations or signing.

Sheriff Stops John Matuszak

A deputy sheriff did with a little piece of paper what three bruising New York Stars were having difficulty accomplishing.

He stopped John Matuszak.

Matuszak, the 6-foot-8, 282-pound defensive tackle who was made the No. 1 pick in the National Football league draft last season by the Houston Oilers, suddenly jumped Wednesday to the Houston Texans of the World Football League. The former Tampa star had practiced with the Oilers for the last two days before his switch Wednesday.

The Oilers threatened legal action but Matuszak was in a Texan uniform Wednesday night when they played host to the Stars at the Astrodome. He wasn't hard to miss. He was the big guy sitting on the Stars' backfield.

Matuszak entered the game in the first period and promptly made his presence felt by nearly decapitating New York quarterback Tom Sherman. After running back Bob Gladieaux was nearly split in two by Matuszak, the Stars decided that one man could not handle him.

But two didn't help as Matuszak again wound up squatting on Sherman's shoulder pads after a pass and New York finally assigned three men to stop the onrushing giant.

But all they really needed was John Growson—once he found his way to the field.

Growson, a Harris County deputy sheriff, served Matuszak on the Houston bench with a temporary injunction prohibiting him from playing for the Texans and the big tackle was through after just five plays, much to the relief of the Stars' offensive line.

Matuszak responded by waving the court order to the slim crowd of just over 10,000 and then taking his seat alongside owner Steve Arnold for the rest of the game.

"I didn't have time to read the court order and evaluate it," Arnold said. "But God, it looked real. And I didn't want to go to jail."

What Matuszak saw was a reversal of last week's game in which the Stars routed Houston 43-10 in New York. Houston played defense Wednesay night and Mike Taliaferro threw TD passes of six yards to Willie Frazier and 35 to Rick Eber to spark a 14-11 Texans' victory. Sherman threw 11 yards to Kreg Kapitan for New York's lone TD as the Stars saw their five-game winning streak snapped.

Matuszak, who may have been stopped from appearing at all if Crowson hadn't gotten lost trying to get to the playing field, is confident he can remain in the WFL.

"I can beat them in court," he said. "I've got principle on my side."

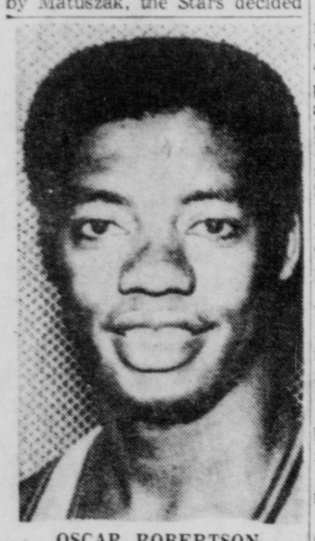

He jumped after issuing the following statement:

"The most important aspect of my signing with the WFL was not to demean or undermine the National Football League, but rather to make professional football a form of employment where management recognizes its workers as individuals capable of communicating on an intelligent level."

In other WFL action Wednesday night, the Bell edged the Detroit Wheels 27-23 before 15,100 in Philadelphia; the Memphis Southmen downed the Florida Blazers 26-18 before 17,148 in Orlando, Fla.; and the Southern California Sun trounced the winless Portland Storm 45-15 before 27,814 in Anaheim. Undefeated Birmingham is at once-beaten Chicago tonight in the national television game.

King Corcoran threw TD passes of 17 yards to Claude Watts and 24 to Donnie Shanklin to lead Philadelphia over winless Detroit, now 0-8. Watts also plunged for anther TD while quarterback Bubba Wyche scored both Detroit TDs on short runs.

OSCAR ROBERTSON

Oscar Through?

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Oscar Robertson is still capable, despite his 35 years, of flashes of the greatness which made him one of the all time stars of the National Basketball Association. But his big salary, no-cut, no-trade contract with Milwaukee Bucks could mean the end of his 15-year career.

Robertson is technically a free agent, free to deal with any time in the NBA or American Basketball Association, because the Bucks did not tender him a new contract before Aug. 1, when his old agreement expired.

The reason the Bucks didn't renew Robertson's $250,000 contract for another season, is the no-cut, no-trade clause in it are unacceptable to the Bucks, who don't want to be in the position of protecting him in the expansion draft next year and losing someone who might become a star. Also, his salary is mighty large for someone his age.

It's Black Thursday at Amateur

RIDGEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — Fifty-one-year-old Bill Campbell calls it "Black Thursday."

But young players like NCAA champ Curtis Strange, Florida Amateur titlist Doug Pate and Porter Cup winner George Burns consider it just another day.

Ed Tutwiler, 55, who called it "the Endurance Test," won't be around for today's double-round action at the 74th U.S. Amateur Golf Championship — he said goodbye on Wednesday. So did veterans Dick Siderowf and Vinnie Giles.

Today the boys at the Ridgewood Country Club started the real test of stamina and nerves.

Since Monday, the action has consisted of one match-play round per day. But fourth-round play was to be held this morning and the fifth round was to begin after a short lunch break.

On Friday, double rounds will be held again on the 6,754-yard, par-71 course. The two finalists will meet in a 36-hole match play contest on Saturday.

It's been hot and humid all week at the North Jersey tournament site. Many of the players feel the weather will be a major factor in the eventual outcome. But no one feels the weather can hurt as much as poor driving and putting.

Tutwiler lost 1 up to Pate, a 20-year-old University of Alabama student from Pensacola, Fla.

The 19-year-old Strange, a Wake Forest sophomore from Virginia Beach, won the Western, the Virginia State Amateur — both match-play events — and hasn't lost a match-play encounter this year.

Burns doesn't draw any conclusions from the longer day. "It's the same course and conditions for everyone, said the husky 25-year-old Port Washington, N.Y., beverage salesman.

Campbell an insurance agent from Huntington, W.Va., who won this event in 1964, got a taste of the long day on Tuesday when he went 25 holes before beating Warren Coates of Williamsport, Pa., 1 up.

On Wednesday, the 14-time West Virginia Amateur titlist had an easier time, knocking off Jed Jennings of Redmond, Wash., 4 and 3.

In key matches on Wednesday, Bill Hyndman of Huntingdon Valley, Pa., beat Curtis Wegner of Atlanta 3 and 2. Hyndman, another old-timer at 58, is an insurance broker and current Senior Amateur champ.

Graham Cooke of Pierrefonds, Que., holed a 40-foot birdie putt on the 17th and went on to upset the 1972 U.S. Amateur titlist Giles of Richmond, Va., 1 up.

In another stunning upset, 50-year-old Julian Arnold of Miami, playing in his first Amateur, turned back the 1973 British Amateur winner Siderowf of Westport, Conn. 3 up.

Olga Ecstatic Over That No. 3 Seeding

Ken Rosewall in Action

Chris, Jim Play Today

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Olga Morozova is agonizing over a badly-sprained left ankle, but is in ecstacy over her No. 3 seeding for today's opening of women's play in the U.S. Open tennis championships.

"I'll play," said the dark-haired Russian. "How well I will play I don't know, but I will try. I won't withdraw."

Mrs. Morozova, who upset Billie Jean King at Wimbledon before bowing to Chris Evert in the final, twisted her ankle trying to run for a ball in the semi-finals last week of the Women's Grass Court Championships at Newport Casino in Rhode Island.

The Soviet ace, whose ankle is laced with tape, drew Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia as her first-round opponent.

Mrs. Morozova, seeded eighth here last year and a third-round loser to Helga Masthoff, would like nothing more than a chance at top-seeded Chris Evert in the finals this time.

The luck of the draw could give her the rematch of Wimbledon's final — if her ankle doesn't let her down and she can get past second-seeded Billie Jean, likely to be her quarter-finals opponent.

Miss Evert, meanwhile, will keep her record of never playing a U.S. Open singles match anywhere except in center court when she opens today's play against Gail Chanfreau of France. She also will be trying to extend her current string of 52 straight matches without a loss.

The men's singles seedings withstood their test well Wednesday, the first of 12 days of world-class tennis at the West Side Tennis Club.

All of the eight seeded men who competed — led by defending champion John Newcombe —advanced to the second round.

Newcombe, the No. 2 seed, crushed Ramiro Benavides of Bolivia 6-2, 6-0, 6-1 in a center court match. Benavides was a last-minute opponent for Newcombe when Leif Johansson became one of three Swedes who failed to show up.

Ken Rosewall, the 39-year-old Australian who lost to Jimmy Connors at Wimbledon, protected his No. 5 seed with a 6-4, 7-6, 6-1 triumph over fellow Aussie Colin Dibley.

Rosewall, who won here in 1970, scrambled for his match against Dibley after only a few day's preparation because of World Team Tennis playoff commitments.

Connors, favored in the men's bracket but still recuperating from a stomach ailment that forced him to default in the Eastern Grass Courts championship, was scheduled for a late-afternoon center-court match today with Jeff Borowiak.

Stan Smith, who shares top ranking with Connors in the United States but is seeded third here, has a late-day date in the grandstand with Jaime Fillol.

Vinnie Giles' Run Over in Amateur

RIDGEWOOD, N.J. (UPI) — It figured that a golf course architect would know where all the trees were planted.

And it was just such a fluke that ended Vinnie Giles' remarkable run of success in the U.S. Amateur Golf Championship.

Graham Cooke, a 27-year-old Canadian who has a landscape architecture degree from Michigan State and designs golf courses for a living, bounced two shots out of the woods on the final hole Wednesday when he upset Giles 1-up in the third round of this year's tournament.

"There's just no excuse for it," said Giles, who was four under par for three days and is going home today.

That's what happens in match play, however.

Cooke, who had gone ahead with a 40-foot birdie putt from the back of the green at 17, pushed his drive on 18 far to the right of the fairway and into the trees.

It bounced out to the middle of the fairway.

"Someone must have thrown it out," Cooke joked.

Then he pushed his second shot to the right, too. It caught some limbs, came down in front of the green, and he got it up and down from there for the par that ended the match. Giles also parred 18.

Byman Wins

Bobby Byman, of Boulder, Colo., advanced to the fourth round with a 4 and 3 victory over Brian Shanks of Phoenix, Ariz. Byman, a member of the national NCAA champion Wake Forest team, got his early training at Wiltwyck Golf Club.

"He hits it absolutely into the middle of the woods and it bounces out into the fairway," complained Giles. "Then he hits his second shot off another tree and it bounces out. I hit three perfect shots on the hole and don't get anything."

Not since Giles finished 38th as a 23-year-old in 1966 had a U.S. Amateur championship been decided without him as a leading figure.

Giles, who now is in business as an agent representating, among others, young pro golfers like Allen Miller, Eddie Pearce and Tom Kite, finished second in the Amateur in 1967, 1968 and 1969, when it was conducted at stroke play.

He was sixth in 1970 and third in 1971

Finally, in '72, Giles beat a field including Ben Crenshaw and won the title, and in last year's return to match play he was knocked out in the semifinals by the eventual winner, Craig Stadler.

Dick Siderowf, the 1973 British Amateur champion, also was an upset victim Wednesday, losing 2-up to Julian Arnold, a 50-year-old food packager from Miami, Fla.

Among those advancing to today's fourth and fifth rounds were 1964 champion Bill Campbell, now the only former winner still in contention, George Burns, the 1973 Canadian Amateur champion and current North & South titlist; and Seniors champion Bill Hyndman III.

Curtis Strange, the NCAA champion from Wake Forest, stopped Jim Joseph of Homewood, Ill., an early two-hole lead before rallying from behind for the third straight day. Walker Cuppers Marty West and Gary Koch also won on Wednesday.

Burns, had the toughtest assignment of any of the big name winners, beating 17-year-old Mark Tinder of Pacific Grove, Calif., when Tinder knocked his drive out of bounds on the first extra hole. Both players had shot two-under-par 60's for the regulation 18, with Burns rallying for the tie by making birdies at 15 and 17.

Hambletonian: Maybe Today

Bulletin

DUQUOIN, Ill. (AP) — The 49th Hambletonian Stakes was postponed for the second day in a row today due to muddy track conditions.

The classic race for 3-year-old trotters was re-scheduled for Friday.

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UPI) — Hambletonian officials deferred until midmorning a decision on whether the weather-postponed classic for 3-year-old trotters would be run later in the day at the Du Quoin State Fair.

The $160,150 race, originally scheduled for Wednesday, was postponed 90 minutes before the start when early morning rains turned the track sloppy and a later deluge swamped the one-mile surface.

It was the sixth time in 49 years the race has been delayed, the first since it moved to Du Quoin in 1957. Earlier postponements were in 1931, 1937, 1946, 1951 and 1952 at Goshen, N.Y.

A suspicion that one of the favorites, Hickory Hill Ranch's Anvil, had been tampered with in his stall, was discounted.

Dick Richardson Jr., driver of Golden Sovereign, the 2-1 favorite among the field of 22, said he believed he would win and that the one-day delay would not hurt his horse.

"I don't feel the layoff will hurt Golden Sovereign," Richardson said, "but I looked at the track and I don't see how it can be raced Thursday. And he may lose a little with an additional day off. He's in peak condition, and I think we'll win."

Both Golden Sovereign and Anvil were in the second heat of the event, scheduled to be raced in two divisions for the second time in history and the first time since 1957. The top five finishers in each heat will return for a third heat, and should one of the winners of the first two heats win, he would take the top prize of $80,075. Should a third horse win, the heat winners would compete for victory in a fourth heat.

Anvil's groom, Gene Hebrock, found the colt in his stall Wednesday morning with a chain wrapped around his right rear leg and a bruise on the pastern. But he believed the colt could compete and that it happened by accident.

Hofstra Slashes Budget

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Hofstra University decided Wednesday to "reshape its athletic program" starting in 1975 by reducing its annual sports budget from $475,000 to about $175,000.

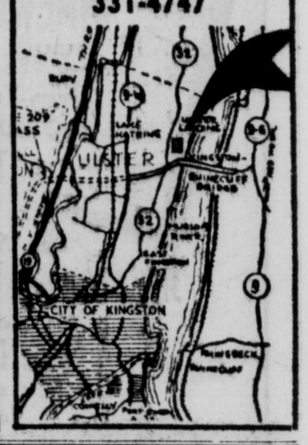

"It's a direct result of inflation," said Robert L. Payton, Hofstra's president, after the university's board of trustees approved his recommendation to trim athletic spending.

"A lot of schools are having these kinds of problems with athletics," Payton said. "We've got educational priorities and our financial structure has to support that."

The board decided that Hofstra — beginning Sept. 1, 1975 — must cut its athletic budget by about $300,000. Financial aid to athletes, however, will not be affected by the reduction.

Payton announced that recommendations for "a wholly new athletic program and philosophy" at Hofstra will be made within two months.

Blacks and Trust Produced Ali-Foreman Contest

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Don King quoted Elijah Muhammad, the Messenger of Allah, and the Koran to persuade Muhammad Ali to fight Goerge Foreman for the world heavyweight championship.

"Remember the Koran said the black man will lead the world out of darkness," King said. "Elijah says we are at the turning point of history. Man, you can't run from this. This is destiny."

Ali puckered up his nose and smiled: "Okay, Judge, you got me. Now go get George."

George Foreman, the heavyweight champion, was more difficult. He refused to see anyone. He declined even to discuss a possible Ali-Foreman fight.

King flew to California and cooled his heels for three days while boxing promoters sought to penetrate Foreman's resistance. Then he found Foreman's hotel and took up residence in the lobby until the champion came in after a workout.

The black promoter and the fighter strolled the lonely beach in semi-darkness, accompanied only by a large Doberman-Pinscher.

The walk and the conversation lasted nearly two hours.

"It was all done with a handshake," King said. "No involved contracts, no lawyers, no men with black satchels getting into the act. It was man against man. Blacks and blacks. Trust. Just trust."

Thus, the seed was sown for the most bizarre sports venture of the age. A former juvenile delinquent out of the Houston ghetto and a bombastic, poetry-spouting descendant of a Kentucky slave will enter the ring of a 100,000-seat soccer stadium in the heart of the old Belgian Congo in Africa at 3 o'clock in the morning Sept. 25 and fight 15 rounds or less for the heavyweight championship of the world.

They predict a billion people will see it on cable television. The gate and other proceeds may gross $35 million. The fighters themselves are guaranteed $5 million each — the largest purse in boxing's history.

How was such a fantastic promotion conceived? Who put the package together? Who raised the up-front money? Why was Kinshasa, once known as Leopoldville, the capital of the emerging nation of Zaire, chosen as the site?

Video Techniques, a young cable television company, became the ball-carrier. It tapped a London leisure firm, Hemdale, for advance money. A Swiss investment firm, Risnelia, with strong African commitments, was persuaded to post the $10 million letters of credit. Risnelia insisted on Zaire as the site. But the man pulling the strings is Don King.

The multi-million-dollar meeting of Foreman and Ali came out of King's head, while others scoffed, and he is probably the only man who, as a black trusted by both fighters and the Zaire promoters, could have tied all the loose strings together.

King had a vision of a Foreman-Ali fight, surpassing all previous spectaculars, before Ali met Joe Frazier in their second fight on Jan. 28 at Madison Square Garden.

The promoter first approached Ali, who showed no interest. "Man, I gotta fight that Frazier again—I can't make any plans," Ali insisted.

"You're going to dance all over Frazier," King told Ali.

"See Herbert Muhammad," said Ali.

King went to Ali's business manager, the son of Elijah, but Herbert also was not excited.

King sat beside Herbert Muhammad that December night when Ali reversed a previous defeat and outpointed Frazier in 12 rounds.

"Now we can go," King exulted. "We got the biggest."

Herbert laughed. He still was skeptical.

King's next step was to contact Henry Schwartz, executive vice president of Video Techniques.

Schwartz was tentative. Foreman still had a bout coming up March 26 in Caracas against Ken Norton. Foreman could lose and Ali might slip up in another fight along the way.

"I can get $10 million advance easy," King said. He was counting on a rich backer from Cleveland.

"Okay," said Schwartz, "if you've got Ali, I can get Foreman."

After Ali had beaten Frazier, Schwartz and King approached Madison Square Garden with the idea of a Foreman-Ali fight. The package was too expensive. The Garden turned it down.

Schwartz put in a phone call to Ladbrooke's, a leading London bookmaker, and Jack Solomons, well-known British fight promoter. They expressed interest.

Schwartz flew across the Atlantic to nail down a $10 million backing. By the time he got to London, Ladbrooke and Solomons had cooled.

"I was very disheartened," Schwartz recalled. "I had only a few hours to make good on our commitment to the Ali people. I was walking down the street when I noticed a bronze plaque reading 'Hemdale Corp.' I remembered once I had met John Daly, so I went in."

Daly is a slender, 33-year-old Briton who in 1967 joined with David Hemmings in forming a leisure corporation. The $30 million company deals in motion picture, theater, TV and music enterprises. Its main source of revenue has come from putting cable TV in hotels.

Daly wrote a check for $200,000 to put up as training expense money for the two fighters. But the fight was still in abeyance. Foreman had not beaten Norton. The site and the bulk of the guaranteed money were still unsolved issues.

Foreman was having problems. He was involved in a divorce suit in Houston. He refused to accept the $100,000 advance. So the entire $200,000 went to Ali.

Meanwhile, it was necessary to raise additional risk capital to the tune of $10 million, needed for letters of credit. Daly remembered a man named Fred Weymar, connected with a Swiss investment firm named Risnelia. Risnelia was interested only if the fight could be staged in Zaire.

Schwartz and King flew to Paris and were closeted for hours with Risnelia lawyers.

"They kept pecking away at our interests and it looked as if the fight was off," King said. "Then we sent a cable to President Mobutu of Zaire. The cable came right back, 'Mobutu insists on the fight.' Risnelia gave in.

Arms and Mastro Win

KINGSTON — Home runs aren't everything, even in slow pitch softball. The Beekman Arms and Mastro Construction each demonstrated that Wednesday night at Block Park as each advanced to the finals of the Shaughnessy Playoffs without the long ball power that had characterized their seasons.

The Arms, which finished in second place in the AAA Division, eliminated Bud's Subs, 10-8, while Mastro, the first place club, knocked off Buster's, 14-1, in five innings. In one other game played, the Kingston Hospital settled the dispute for first place in the C Division by downing B&H Datsun, 12-11.

The Beekman Arms peppered loser Jesse Adams with 14 hits, the longest of which were doubles by Dave Sigler and Carl Hulle, but that was enough to get the winners five runs in the first inning and a 7-1 lead after two full frames. The Subs tried a comeback in the fifth with Tim Bowens' grand slam highlighting a seven-run explosiion, but Mag Reichelt hung on while his teammates scored two in the sixth to retake the lead for keeps.

Hobie Armstrong and John Armstrong each powered a solo homer for the Subs. Cal Fowx, Hulle and Bob Masten drove in two runs apiece for the Arms.

Mastro's Murderers Row confined itself to singles for just about the first time this season, but 16 one-baggers, along with a few doubles from the rest of the lineup, was more than enough to subdue Buster's. Scoring in every inning, the winners wrapped it up in five frames, and only Ernie Bodie's seventh circuit of the season spoiled Ray Lindhorst's bid for a shutout.

Leadoff man Bob Smith slammed tow doubles, and Joe Schabot rapped another to provide Mastro with all its extra bases. They both had three hits in the game as did Bob Thomas, while Thomas and John Tremper contributed two RBI's each. Ron Reynolds took the loss.

Tom Gallo ripped two home runs, his fourth and fifth of the year, and drove in four runs to propel the Hospital past Datsun in the struggle for the C Division pennant. A big first inning in which the winners scored 11 times was the difference as the Datsuns spent the rest of the game trying to catch up.

An eight-run, third inning rally brought the losers to within one run, but that was as close as they were to et. By the time the next B&H run crossed, the Hospital and had already tallied gain.

Andy Lord won the mound duel from John Mazzucca. Dan Jacobs slammed a pair of doubles for the Hospital, and Al Grosso and Bill Costello hit one each for B&H. Both teams ended the regualr season with 9-2 records.

The Hospital will now meet the third place Nagasaki A Bombs while B&H takes on fourth place Cordts Hose in the first round of the Shaughnesssy Playoffs.

Goobers Surprised

SAUGERTIES — The champion Maniacs discovered that trying to go two straight seasons unbeaten in the SAA Goober Softball League does have its snares and pitfalls.

They wrapped up the league championship with a 11-1 record but had their 21-game winning streak rudely jolted by the second-place Flyers, 10-9. On top of that, they had to rally with four runs in the bottom of the seventh to nip Superdudes 4-3 after trouncing them 15-3.

The Flyers assaulted Karl Lezette (6-0) for nine runs in the first three innings. The Maniacs scrambled back and missed a tie in the seventh when the tying runner was heading for home, slipped, fell and was nailed at the plate.

Steve Wilson and Rich Conway each collected a double and two singles for the Flyers and Doug Short knocked in three runs with a single and his third homer of the season. Jay Harris and Tim Cole had three hits each for the Maniacs.

Cole went 4-for-4 including a homer and three singles and Tom Francello cracked four singles in the 15-3 stampede over Superdudes. In the second game, Joe Martin had three hits and Frank Tiano singled and doubled.

Cole, the 1973 batting champion, repeated with a hefty .659 average, collecting eight hits in nine trips, including a homer and two doubles. He nailed down the Triple Crown by leading in homers with four and runs batted in with 24.

Lezette repeated as top pitcher with his 6-1 mark. Cole picked up a fourth award with most doubles (8) and Jim Hackett had most triples, five.

Saugerties Moves Closer to Zoning

SAUGERTIES — After some five years of concentrated effort in some quarters, the Town of Saugerties is moving toward the adoption of a zoning law.

Next public hearing to be held by the Town Zoning Commission will be at 8:15 p.m., Sept. 17 at the Saugerties High School. The first hearing last week was largely spent on a few details of the proposal.

Calvin Cody, chairman of the Zoning Commission, announced that there would be three hearings held to give residents the opportunity to ask questions on the proposal or to register objections.

After the first hearing, Manuel S. Emanuel of the consulting firm of Manuel S. Emanuel Associates, Inc., told the Commission members he was very encouraged with the results basically because it had brought forth so few problem areas.

According to a statement from the town officials, he seemed to be optimistic that problems discussed were far from insurmountable.

The Commision has been working with the consultant for the past two years in putting together the proposal as it now stands.

One section of the proposal that received some negative comment concerned keeping recreational vehicles in yards, arousing several owners to defend this act.

Republicans' Event Sept. 8

SAUGERTIES — Town of Saugerties Republican Club will hold its ninth annual Family Day Picnic on Sunday, Sept. 8, starting at 1 p.m. at the Cantine Memorial Field with the rain location at Glasco Fire Hall.

Club president Timothy Murphy has named Raymond Smith of Barclay Heights as general chairman of the event. Smith is Deputy Clerk of the New York State Assembly Revision Office.

"We want all of our fellow Republicans, their families and friends to enjoy an afternoon of good food, fun and fellowship," said Smith.

"It will also be a fine opportunity for everyone to meet informally with our Republican office holders and candidates," he added.

Smith has named the following committee chairmen: tickets, Don McCaig; program and entertainment, Wilson Edmunds; publicity, Frances Everts.

The Dynamics will provide musical entertainment.

Tickets are available from all Club officers, directors and Saugerties town committeemen.

Expected to attend the picnic are Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th Dist.), State Sen. Edwyn Mason, (R-48th Dist.) Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, (R-101st Dist.) and Coroner Richard Buono; also Associate Justice of the State Supreme Court, Ellis J. Staley, GOP-Conservative candidate for Ulster County Sheriff, Thomas F. Mayone, Republican County Chairman Albert Spada and County Legislators C. Freeman Lasher, Charles Scala, and Clifford Snyder all of District One as well as Town Councilman Henry Breitenbach, Clarence Gardner and Frank Hallion, all of Saugerties.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone you're expecting to do a service for you is going to forget. Don't make him feel more embarrassed than he already is.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's a party you know who likes to manipulate people to his advantage. Be careful he doesn't use you at this time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone is going to say "yes" today to something you ask for merely to be expeditious. This person will not follow through.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) All is not as it appears on the surface in a business matter you're involved in. Start digging a little deeper.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't make major decisions today unless you fully appreciate what they really mean to you in dollars and cents. Get out the pad and pencil.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In order to realize the greatest benefits from tasks you are now performing for another, be sure to follow his instructions to the letter.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try not to mix socially at this time with one your past experiences have shown to be deceitful. He hasn't changed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Keep a close eye on your possessions if there are strangers around the house today. One may not be as honest as he should be.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is not a good day to tell tall tales or fish stories. What you say will later have to be verified.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone is going to be coming to you with a sad tale. You'll want to help this person materially. Check his story further.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be careful another doesn't get you mixed up in his complicated problem. They relate to an overdue money matter.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Select your companions wisely today. One you pal around with will leave you holding the bag if he gets in a jam.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

"EX" TROUBLE: (Q.) I have been going with Mark five months. All that time his ex girl friend has been calling him and going over to see him.

He has given her hints to get lost, but will not come out and tell her to. He says he is not that type of person.

We have fights about it. What can I do?—Seething in South Carolina.

(A.) You can admit to yourself that if Mark really wanted to get rid of this girl he could. He apparently likes her.

This does not mean he does not like you. And it does not mean you cannot date him and enjoy your times with him.

If you cannot accept the situation, continue to date him and don't discuss her with him. But if you have to fight him all the time because you can't face facts as they are, you would be better off to let him go.

HURTING: (Q.) I met this really cool guy a while back and he's been coming around, but not very often—maybe once every two weeks. He never calls me, either. It's been over a week since I've heard from him. Should I call him, or just suffer?

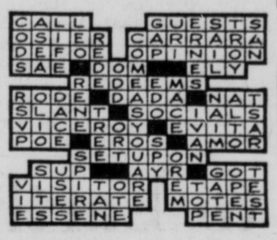

I do go out with other guys, but I like him the most. I can't talk to him about it 'cause I'm too proud to let him know that he's hurting me. Help! - 16 in Pennsylvania

(A) Don't be so proud. When you see him tell him you miss him and invite him to call you on the telephone or to come over. Maybe he will. Also spend less of your time suffering and more of it having fun with other boys. That is good medicine.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

There is a certain abomination that is used in connection with not opening four-card majors. It is what is popularly called the short club. This is not to be confused with the artificial club systems like the Vanderbilt, the Neapolitan and the Precision. It is just a sort of nondescript club opening, with three small or a doubleton.

South can make a grand slam in hearts, if he just pulls one round of trumps and then crossruffs. Six hearts will make if he takes two rounds of trumps. If he pulls all East's trumps, he will hold himself to five.

However, South never opened four-card majors. Most five-card majorities would make an exception and open one heart, but South was going to rise and fall with a silly short club.

Everything might have been fine if good old West hadn't stuck in a nonvulnerable four-spade bid. North wasn't going to be shut out. He Blackwooded but settled for a six-club bid, in spite of South showing both missing aces.

East was too happy to double. He just waited and collected three trump tricks.

Rivers in the conterminous United States discharged an average of about 1.3 million tons of sediment every day (491 million tons per year) into the sea. Echeverria's Father-in-Law Is Kidnaped by Guerrillas

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — Soldiers sealed off Mexico's second largest city today in a desperate search for President Luis Echeverria's 83-year old father-in-law, kidnaped by guerrilla gunmen on a Guadalajara street.

Troops ringed the city with roadblocks while local police and federal officers waged a systematic search of cars and houses for kidnaped J. Guadalupe Zuno Hernandez, a political power in Mexico for a half-century.

"At the moment we have no certain clues," a spokesman for the Jalisco state attorney general's office said in Guadalajara.

Police said Zuno Hernandez was riding in his chauffered limousine through a poor district of Guadalajara Wednesday when four gunmen forced his car off the road.

Authorities said the assailants beat up the elderly statesman, dumped him into their auto and then sped off.

A Mexico City radio station said the guerrillas were demanding a $1.6 million ransom and the release of 100 political prisoners for Zuno Hernandez' life.

Echeverria's wife, Maria Esther, flew to Guadalajara as soon as she learned of her father's abduction. Security agents shielded her from newsmen and she went to the home of a brother.

The Revolutionary Armed Front of the People, a left-wing guerrilla group responsible for the 1973 abduction of U.S. Consul Terrence Leonhardy, claimed credit for Zuno's kidnaping, police said.

The government freed 30 political prisoners to win Leonhardy's release, but since then has adamantly refused to negotiate with guerrillas.

The kidnaping seemed aimed at marring Echeverria's coming state of the nation address. A spokesman said Sunday's speech would go on as scheduled. "The kidnaping is a terrible tragedy but the nation's work must go on," he said.

Zuno Hernandez, a political kingmaker and former Jalisco governor, helped engineer Echeverria's presidential nomination in 1970. He also founded the University of Guadalajara and teaches part-time at the college.

First reports of the kidnaping came when the Revolutionary Armed Front telephoned two newspaper reporters to give the location of a comminique on the abduction.

Guadalajara, 380 miles west of Mexico City, has been torn by a string of terrorist kidnapings in the past two years.

Kidnaped Mexican industrialiast Fernando Aranguren was slain last October when the government refused to meet guerrilla demands.

Guerrillas in the Pacific Coast state of Guerrero kidnaped the government candidate for governor last May. The victim, 71-year old Sen. Ruben Figueroa, has yet to be found despite an intense army search.

John Patterson, the U.S. vice consul in the northern Mexico city of Hermosillo, was kidnaped mysteriously last March. His skeleton was found in the Sonora Desert July 7.

UN Meeting on Cyprus Situation

By United Press International

The U.N. Security Council called a special meeting today to consider ways of bringing relief to tens of thousands of refugees left homeless by a month of warfare on Cyprus.

In Nicosia, Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktash protested the U.N. meeting, saying the Greek Cypriot government on the war-torn island had no authority to ask for the session without his approval.

In Izmir, Turkey, Premier Bulent Ecevit received a hero's welcome when he defended his country's July 20 invasion of the island as a national and human duty.

A government spokesman in Nicosia said Turkish troops looted the northeastern village of Adana Wednesday and took eight Greek Cypriots hostage. U.N. troops said they could not confirm the report.

At the United Nations, Cypriot Ambassador Zenon Rossides asked the Security Council to meet this afternoon to consider ways of overcoming the growing economic and humanitarian problems on Cyprus.

Rossides said he mainly wanted to discuss ways the world body could aid refugees, now estimated at 140,000 Greek Cypriots and 5,000 Turkish Cypriots out of the island's total population of 700,000 persons.

Diplomatic sources at the world body said Rossides had met privately with representatives of nonaligned countries in an effort to work out a plan of action, but no agreement could be reached.

Rossides also said he had hoped to hear a report on the refugee problem from Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, but the U.N. envoy was hospitalized with flu after returning Monday from a trip to Cyprus, Turkey and Greece.

The Turkish army's two blitz attacks on Cyprus captured 40 per cent of the island and drove thousands of Greek Cypriots from their northern homes to the safety of British bases on the island's southern coast.

In Nicosia, Turkish Cypriot leader Denktash, the island's vice president, charged Wednesday that President Glafkos Clerides had exceeded his authority by asking for the U.N. meeting.

"Legally and constitutionally Mr. Clerides has no authority to call such a meeting without my signature and approval," Denktash said. "I have received no such request."

Denktash said he would have an envoy "knocking on all doors" at the United Nations to tell diplomats that Rossides is a Greek Cypriot and does not represent the Turkish community.

Turks in Izmir rejoiced in the streets during a speech by the premier on the Cyprus crisis and the country's future. It marked the first time Ecevit left the capital since last month's invasion of the island.

"The Cyprus operation was not a conquest but a national duty," Ecevit said. "Furthermore it was a duty toward humanity. It is now easier to obtain a definite result on Cyprus."

Sheriff's Posse Captain Accused in 1962 Murders

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Police arrested the captain of a sheriff's posse Wednesday on charges of killing 20-year-old sweethearts in an execution-style slaying that has baffled investigators for more than 12 years.

The suspect's estranged wife said he told her he was assigned by the U.S. Army to kill two people in 1962 but 'got the wrong ones."

William Wayne Macumber who will be 39 Friday, was charged with the killings of Joyce Anne Sterrenberg, Scottsdale, Ariz., and her fiance, James T. McKillop, Phoenix.

Their bodies were found in the desert north of Scottsdale May 24, 1962, by children. Each had been shot twice in the head with a .45 caliber pistol. Miss Sterrenberg had not been molested, and $60 was left on the bodies.

Months of investigation, and an offer of a $10,000 reward, turned up no clues and the motive for the killings remained a mystery.

Macumber, an employee of Honeywell, Inc., was captain of the Maricopa County Sheriff's Posse, a volunteer organization that aids in desert and mountain search and rescue work, which he joined only eight months ago. The posse members are not regular sheriff's officers.

His wife, Carol Jane, is a secretary in the sheriff's office.

Phoenix city police detectives said Mrs. Macumber told them that on the night when the couple was killed, her husband came home covered with blood. She said he told her at the time he had gone hunting and stopped to help occupants of a stalled car, who beat him up.

She said that four months ago, her husband told her he had killed McKillop and Miss Sterrenberg, the detectives said. He told her that at the time of the shooting he was working for the Army's Criminal Investigation Division, and was assigned to kill two persons, but killed the wrong ones, the detectives said.

(The Army CID investigates criminal offenses and is not involved with espionage or secret operations, and does not perform summary executions.)

Sheriff Paul Blubaum said "prints found on the hood of the car at the scene of the slayings and those taken from Macumber matched."

The parents of the dead couple say that since their burial 12 years ago a person unknown to them frequently has left flowers on the sweethearts' adjoining graves in Memory Lawn Memorial Park.

Rains . . . Too Little, Too Late

By The Associated Press

Too little, too late.

That's the consensus about the recent rains that fell in the Midwest.

The experts say the moisture may help the soybean crop, but it's too late to do much about corn. Soybean and corn are two major grains used to feed dairy cows, chickens and beef cattle. If the price of feed goes up, so does the price of milk, poultry and meat.

No one is really sure exactly how much supermarket prices will rise, or when the boost will hit. The government already has upped its estimate of 1974 price increases, saying that at the end of this year, food will cost about 15 per cent more than it did in 1973. Earlier, the officials estimated a 12 per cent jump this year.

Americans may get a helping hand from Europe.

Petrus Lardinois, agriculture commissoner of the European Common Market, announced on Wednesday that the market will reduce purchases of U.S. corn and other feed grains by about 10 per cent in the coming year, leaving a greater supply for Americans.

"We think that when you have to cut back in your own consumption, especially of corn, that it is normal that we try also to do in our agricultural policy about the same," said Lardinois, who was in Washington, D.C., at the invitation of Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz.

The next government crop report isn't due until Sept. 11. The last report, issued on Aug. 12, said that the corn crop would be about 4.97 billion bushels, 12 per cent below last year's harvest.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture said Monday that a special midmonth review of the situation showed that rain during the first half of August "did not promote significant gains in corn production although soybeans could benefit from the moisture."

State and regional officials contacted in an Associated Press survey agreed, adding that the rain might help prepare the soil for fall wheat planting.

A spokesman for the Missouri Department of Agriculture said farmers in 20 counties have applied for low-cost federal loans because of damage to crops.

Neal Gunkel, assistant to the Illinois agriculture director, said rains have helped the soybeans — which are planted and harvested later than corn. But he predicted that the yield would be 15 per cent less than last year.

Reports from Iowa, the nation's top corn producer, showed earlier that more than half the crop was destroyed in some areas and officials said the rain came too late to help farmers recover.

Raymond Hancock of the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said the rain would help the 1975 wheat crop which will be planted this fall and needs soil moisture to enable the seeds to germinate and grow through the winter months.

Moving a State Capital

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — Residents of this city, which owes its livelihood to state employment and tourism, are reeling at the blow Alaska's voters dealt them in this week's primary election.

Twice before, since statehood came in 1959, Juneau and its friends in the state's southeastern panhandle mustered counterattacks to defeat proposals to relocate the capital. But not this time.

More than half the state's voters turned out to approve overwhelmingly building a new seat of state government nearer Anchorage and Fairbanks, the state's two largest cities.

The reaction from residents ranged from denunciations of "selfish Anchorage" to questions that the panhandle form a new state of South Alaska.

"After all, there is a North and South Dakota," said Marjorie John, 19. "Why not a Southeast Alaska and let the rest of the state go its way?"

The main argument for moving the capital was that Juneau, accessable only by air or water transportation, was too far from most of the state's population. Proponents of the move also noted that Juneau often is fogbound for days.

"We'll just have to drive harder with more pressure to get that pulp mill and its 1,100 jobs," Mayor William Macomber said.

He referred to a proposed pulp mill to be located about 40 miles north of here. The proposal has been tied up in the courts by lawsuits over environmental questions.

State government offices employ about 2,700 persons. The city has a population of about 17,000.

A state-financed study by Boeing Computer Services, Inc., concluded the capital move would reduce the city's population to about 10,000.

Various estimates of the cost of building a new capital complex have ranged from $110 million to $500 million, depending upon the site chosen.

Cosmonauts Back to Earth

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two Soviet cosmonauts rode their space capsule back to earth early today, dropping through darkness and bad weather in a hair-raising descent apparently caused by trouble aboard the craft.

The official Tass news agency said the spacemen —grandfather Lev Demin, 48, and his 32-year-old commander, Gennady Sarafanov —were "in good health" following the unprecedented, predawn landing in Central Asia.

Western experts said the tricky and dangerous return of Soyuz 15 in adverse weather conditions suggested an emergency aboard the craft, but Tass treated the landing as routine.

The news agency said Col. Demin and Lt. Col. Sarafanov landed their capsule soon after midnight in Soviet Kazakhstan about 30 miles from the city of Tselinograd.

Tass explained the Soviet Union's first, manned night-time landing by saying one goal of the 48-hour mission was to develop "methods and means of search for and evacuation of a spaceship landing at night."

The news agency said the cosmonauts also carried out "experiments for developing the processes of maneuvering and rendezvous" with the orbiting Salyut 3 space laboratory.

Western specialists had predicted the two cosmonauts would try to board the space station, but Tass made no mention of any attempts to link up with the lab.

Earlier, Tass said the spacemen made repeated approaches to the 20-ton space lab. Last month, two Soyuz 14 cosmonauts spent two weeks aboard the station, which was launched June 25.

Tass said ground recovery teams speedily evacuated the cosmonauts "in a difficult meteorological situation," but the news agency made no other comments about the bad weather conditions.

Western space experts said they had no doubt the two-day flight ended prematurely. They said there might have been trouble with the docking system or problems —mechanical as well as human —inside the Soyuz capsule.

"Something must have gone wrong," one Western expert said. "They could not have accomplished anything significant in two days."

U.S. space officials in Washington said the Soyuz 15 flight would have no direct bearing on next year's planned Soviet-American space mission.

The Soyuz program has been plagued with problems.

In the worst incident, three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts died on their return to earth in 1971 after 24 days aboard the Salyut 1 space lab. Scientists blamed the mishap on a faulty hatch cover.

Kissinger May Visit Middle East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said late Wednesday he may make a brief trip to the Middle East in October.

Kissinger told reporters of his plans as he greeted Saudi Arabian Foreign Minister Omar Saqqaf who arrived at Dulles International Airport near here for talks with Kissinger.

Kissinger said his trip still was tentative. He also plans to confer with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in Moscow in October.

Saqqaf meets with Kissinger today and will be honored at a dinner given by the secretary tonight. The two will meet again Friday.
